4,300 People Flee Homes In Mankato Area

swollen Minnesota river swamped streets.

With temperatures down near freezing, all but 500 Mankato residents left their homes under orders of local officials.

The Red river also was rising. A flood warning was posted at Fargo, N. D., and Moorhead, Minn. lying on either side of the river, expected to crest at 26 or 27 feet today.

Elsewhere in Minnesota, the community of Marshall counted its losses as the Redwood river ebbed. Damages were estimited at $1,000,000.

In Iowa and South Dakota, flooded rivers were subsiding.

The Minnesota river spilled over levees at North Mankato, in southern, Minnesota, as volunteers bolstered the dikes against the expected flood crest. Twelve miles north of Mankato at $t. Peter, about 150 volunteers were building emergency dikes.

At New Ulm, 30 miles upstream, the river level dropped some Sunday night giving rise to the hope that the Minnesota would crest at Mankato day.

Two feet of water covered Mankato streets and at least 1,000 telephones were out of order.

At midstream, the current again sucked the boat towards the rapids, but it was stopped by the railing of a submerged bridge.

Almost out of the current, an oar was broken and Rivet managed to hold fast to a lamp post protruding from the water. Stranded for almost half an hour, the councillors saved themselves by pulling their craft along a cable fence inches below the water.

At midstream the water is 15 feet deep.

Disparate Court Sentences

Last Thursday our news columns reported two sentences handed down to two different men guilty of sexual offences. In Barrie a magistrate's court sentenced a guilty Camp Borden man to one month in jail for indecently assaulting an eight-year-old girl. In Cobourg, Chief Justice McRuer sentenced a Port Hope man guilty of criminally assaulting and raping a young mother to twenty years in prison. While recognizing that in law and in fact there is a wide difference between indecent assault of a child and criminal assault and rape of a woman, we think that the difference in severity of sentences is a vagary of justice. If the one sentence was socially too lenient, the other was socially vindictive.

The Wilson report presents a policy which promises a return to a normal way of life in three years. This promises should help to stabilize U.S. economy and even the minds of the American people.

There are many ifs in the report, however, as the Ottawa Journal is quick to point out:

The "if" of the "fullest degree of drive and unity." The "if" of "not letting enthusiasm ebb and flow." The "if" of conquering inflation. The "if" of biggest of all—of Russia not starting war in the meantime.

Perhaps it is not exactly new, but it has been brought to a new precision largely through things learned during the war.

It is the airplane and its camera and a host of scientific developments with which to read the meaning of what they reveal.

What they do was dramatized recently at the Toronto plant of Photographic Survey Corporation Ltd., on the occasion of the competion of a five-year contract for the Ontario government.

The company presented Hon.

H. R. Scott, Ontario Minister of Langis and Forests, with the final map sheet of a survey of 127,472

And Mr. Scott, not to be outdone, presented the company with a huge cheque, some three feet by two feet in size, made out for $15,000, the final payment on an account of $1,567,553. Then, to complete the flourish, the company flew Mr. Scott home to Peterborough in one of its helicanters. copters. Precision Work

Before all this took place, a party of lands and forests personnel and newspaper men were taken through the plant and shown how the work in the air is interpreted. It was precision stuff, and technical, but the end result determined, with reasonable accuracy, the following:

The wealth of a timber stand; the hydro-electric potentialities of rivers and streams; data which will guide farmers in rotation of crops. And, because the airplane also has equipment to measure magnetic variations of the ground over which it flies, something is learned of what may be found deep down underground.

For instance, around Marmora, in Eastern Ontario, where known iron ore now is being explored, the magnetic restrictions of the ground in the continuous contents of the continuous contents of the contents of

A company publication illustrates the time-saving as follows:

"Although it has taken two generations to complete a forest inventory of Ontario, 90 per cent of the work has been completed in the last four years, using air photography and photogrammetry."

Say Lack Of Oxygen Blamed For Crash

TORONTO, April 9—(CP)—The Star said Saturday that lack of oxygen may have caused last Thursday's crash of a CF-100 jet fighter near London, Ont. "Something happened eight miles high to cut off the oxygen supply for FIL Lt. Bruce Warren (the pilot) before the fatal plunge of the CF-100," the paper says in a newspage story. Wants Britons Grow Food In Backyards

NORWICH, England - (CP)-

He is organizing a food produc-tion council designed to prove the country can supply more of her tood from her own backyard.

"Our main object is to en-courage and interest every man, woman and youngster with a bit of land however small, to produce as much as they can," said Arm-strong. "And that goes for all of Britain."

Associated with Armstrong are the small Pig Keepers' Council, the Domestic Poultry Keepers' Council and the National Allotments and Garden Society. All want to increase production in Britain's back gardens.

During the Second World War, "backyarders" produced 8,250,000 tons of food. In 1948 they provided 13,500 tons of pig meat, 30,000 hundredweight of rabbit meat and a quarter of the country's eggs.

meat and a quarter of the country's eggs.

Armstrong has personal experience as a backyard farmer.

After the war, he dug up his tennis court, planted vegetables, bought a couple of hens and started farming. Now he keeps 10 chickens with an average yearly egg yield of 150 from each hen.

Havana Meeting

Preliminary agreement was reached three years ago at a Havana conference of the members of the Geneva agreement, signed the previous year in Switzerland.

Since then Canada has been waiting for nations to make final ratification. Particularly, Canada was watching the United States to take the lead. So were other nations.

Congress still has not given full consideration to the matter, and both the Trade and External Affairs Departments see no sign that it intends to do so in the near future.

There is "increasing possibility" says the External Affairs Department in its annual report, "that ITO will not be established." The general agreement on tariffs and trade assumes "a new importance."

AskShareholders About Action On Gold Price

TORONTO, April 9 — (CP) —
Ontario and Quebec gold mines, harassed by a price of gold which doesn't rise, and costs which do, are asking shareholders what they should do about it.

Questions have been prepared by a committee of oprators and will be mailed out by a large number of companies. It is estimated that they will go to from half to three-quarters of an estimated 200,000 shareholders. The questions are:

nated 200,000 shareholders. The juestions are:

Are you in favor of Canada's gold mines being given access to world markets for gold, at home and abroad?

Should we, in order to give support to our employees and mining communities in general, continue to struggle against almost imposable odds until our resources are exhausted?

At present, gold mines are paid $35 an ounce, United States currency, a price set by the United States in the '30s and which has been recognized as an official rate by the International Monetary Pund, of which Canada is a member.

The gold is bought from the mines by the government, which uses it in connection with its foreign exchange transactions. In recent years the tendency has been for it to go to the United States, which is willing to buy it. The committee issued a statement with the questions.

WHEN you consider the men, women and money needed to operate 3,700 branches you see what is involved in looking after the greatly increased demands made by busy Canadians upon their chartered banks.

In ten years . . . with bigger staffs and higher wages, payrolls have jumped from $40 million a year to $102 million

... taxes, federal, provincial and municipal, have risen from $9.5 million to $20.7 million a year

And these are only three of many expense items. Yes, today more than ever, it costs money to run a bank.

DRESDEN, ONT., March

DRESDEN, ONT., March — (CP)—Old Uncle Tom will be dead 68 years next May 5 and to-day his Kent County home near here is almost intact.

Uncle Tom—fictional herd of Harriet Beecher Stowe's antislavery classic—in real life was Rev. Josiah Henson who lived in the house for many years while operating the British American Institute, Canada's first technical training school.

An ambitious three-year program by William Chapple, 51-year-old district farmer is responsible—for the restoration. Chapple became interested in the Uncle Tom legend when a boy and was fascinated by stories of escaped slaves who eventually reached Dresden by way of the underground railway.

The exact date the house was built is unknown but it was likely constructed soon after Henson—established the British American Institute in 1842. The house was removed from its present site 40 years ago and joined with a farm house 30 feet away. It was returned to its original location three years ago when Chapple purchased the area on which the house stood.

DEAR MISS DIX: What chance of happinss is there in a marriage between a sensitive woman and a teasing man? I love him and he loves me, but is that going to make me stop minding his make ing fun of me? Obviously, it isn't going to stop his teasing. Here is the way it goes: We may have been spending a happy evening together. Then suddenly he will snatch a chance remark I make, misconstrue of it and tell me what I said. I deny it, and we are off, and the more I make an idiot of Dorothy Dix myself by getting mad, the funnier he thinks it is. Why does he delight in wounding me?

DEAR MISS DIX: What chance who has not been taught to be orderly and neat in his youth to be orderly and neat in his youth to be orderly and neat in his youth to change his habits after he is grown, but it can be done, and unless he is phenomenally selfish and stupld he will begin to alter his ways.

But if he doesn't, it is up to you to decide which means the most for you in happiness—keeping on good terms with your son-inlaw, or keeping your house neat I agree with you that a disorderly person is hard to endure, but, after all, scattering clothes about and leaving a ring around the tub is not so hard to forg ve as would be, say, drunkenness, or philandering, or his being unkind to your daughter.

As a boy slave, Henson was beaten so brutally both his shoulder blades were broken and he was reipled for life. After years of heart-break, he finally escaped with his wife and four children. Carrying two little ones on his back in a sling.

LONDON, April 9—(AP)—A walkout by nearly 8,000 dock workers marked the opening today of the conspiracy trial of seven dockers accused of inciting illegal waterfront strikes.

(War Minister John Strachey announced in the British House of Commons last Tuesday that the British section of the 27th Brigade — the Middlesex Regiment and the Argyil and Sutherland Highlanders — will be relieved soon after seven months in the line. He said there are no plans to relieve the 29th Brigade which arrived in Korea in November.

(Under the recently announced United States rotation plan, to begin in mid-April, some 20,000 men monthly will be relieved when the plan gets into full swing. Army Sec. Frank Pace said the number to be rotated in the early stages will depend upon the flow of replacements and the pressure of war.)

Arthur Menzies, chief of the Canadian diplomatic mission in Tokyo, has invited any Canadians visiting Tokyo to live at his residence but so far the Canadian when the arrives this month with the special force, now at Fort Lewis, Wash. The best the United States can hope for, Marshall said, is a period of tension rather than allout war. Nab Exchange Evaders $227,454 Collected

OTTAWA, April 3—(CP)—The claimed to have hit a winning foreign Exchange Control Board swooped down on exchange control evaders last year, scooping up a total of $227,454 in fines and forfeitures.

Biggest of the fines, said the board in its annual review, was one for $70,000 levied against a Toronto man shipping securities across the border to the United States without a permit.

Another big one of $40,000 was paid by a Montreal operator of a chain of hotels, who acquired more than $200,000 in U.S. funds and falled to sell them to his bank in Canada, as required by law.

Altogether, said the board, though it found that the fines were bigger, the number of infractions had declined. For example, RCMP and customs of-ficials made a total of 1,831 seizures at border points in 1950. These seizures involved $115,483 in U.S. funds. Two years ago, in 1949, they had made 2,820 seizures, involving $185,012.

125 Charged

OTTAWA, April 3—(CP)—The claimed to have hit a winning streak in race bets and card sames.

His balance showed a total of 191,186. Most of the money was used "to meet gambling losses and expenses on a trip to Europe." He was fined $4,000 for failing to sell U.S. dollars to authorized dealers.

A Seal Cove, N.B., fish exporter got hit too. He understated the $27,000 in U.S. cheques and was fined $3,000 for ilegally dealing in exchange, making false declarations and again failing to dealers.

Drunk Driving

LOS ANGELES, April 9—(AP)—Actor John Agar, 30, divorced husband of Shirley Temple, was inited on suspicion of drunk driving Sunday night. It was his third similar arrest in little more than 1948, they had made 2,820 seizures, involving $185,012.

VATICAN CITY, April 9 (Reuters).—The Valican is watching with dismay the 'gradual destruction of one of the greatest missionary organizations ever built.

Fragmentary reports tell of progressive elimination of the great structure built up during the 400 years since the followers of Francis Xavier first penetrated China.

Little now remains of the 19 archdioceses, 89 dioceses, 34 apostolic prefectures and the Urgamission 'Sui Iuris' of Mongolia, which three years ago grouped 2,251,347 Roman Catholics and 14,000 foreign and Chinese priests friars and nums.

Latest reports from parts of China have indicated an extraordinary revival of religious fervor among some Roman Catholics, But on the whole the tremendous pressure of the Communist regime appears to be having its inevitable effect.

More than 1,000 spectators stood in drenching rain to watch as flames licked through the roof of the two-storey factory and lit up the sky. The fire jumped rapidly to the storehouse, blazing through tons of finished candles.

The fire is believed to have started in an old dressing room in the box plant. As smoke poured in, Charles Russell, night watchman at the candle factory, closed fire doors connecting the two plants and staggered outside, almost overcome by smoke.

By then the first fire reels had arrived and sent out calls for more. Fire chief John Shapton sent out a general alarm and called for aid from the New York side.

"I think we had better have that stake on our side" he added with quiet emphasis.

"The East will not accept in words or in a few well-meaning acts the promises of the West" he explained. "There are too many words on the other side to keep their feelings alive."

"It is a sad fact that all the generosity the west has demonstrated, all the devotion of missionaries, the ideas and ideals of western philosophy—none of it outweighs the feeling of injustice. Because of the deeply rooted distrust of western advances it will take more to convince India that Communism is a threat to the way of life Asiatics treasure."

The possibility of adding new occupations was discussed. Industry is lacking because economics were deliberately made dependent by western countries who kept Asia as a producer of prime products and a market for consumer goods. The people are obsessed with the idea of increased independency and used the word "self sufficiency" all the time but the Professor said what they really meant was emancipation. This new sense of widening destiny came since the war but the difficulty is the Far East is unable to carry it out alone.

In the past the most insistent and insidious agitators against the Canadian form of government, and advocates for foreign, thief, or thieves, abandoned them, and Communist systems, have been foreignborn people who have become naturalized citizens. The Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Drew, believes that the new proposals do not go far enough. Perhaps they do not, not far enough to net all who are unworthy of the naturalization they buy a stolen picture, which could be have been granted, but it is better to draw the net too loosely than too tightly. Freedom of speech and action under the law have been too hardly won over many centuries to allow even a shadow of intolerance to restrict it. Freedom is lost and prejudice of these times, fanned by incidents across the border, can dissolve the rights which have taken six centuries to establish. Parliament is being justly careful and with the new amendments, those who abuse the rights of Canadian citizenship can be brought to court, and aliens deported, under established processes of law, and not by arbitrary decision.

Our Indians Raise New Problems

MICHAEL BARKWAY

THE Canadian Parliament is considering a new bill to regulate the affairs of the original Canadians, the Indians. It will replace an act which has been in force, with some amendments, since 1880. Representative In-dians from all over Canada discussed the new bill with the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, Mr. Walter Harris, and nearly all of it met with their approval.

T is only comparatively lately that Indian affairs have got much public attention in Canada, and they present some very difficult problems. The Indian population is not declining, as many people have supposed. It is increasing at a rate of about one and a half per cent. per year, and there are now something over 136,000 Canadian Indians. About half of these are members of hands with half of these are members of bands with whom treaties were concluded in the name of Queen Victoria, assuring them of the posses-Queen Victoria, assuring them of the possession of their own reserves and a regular annual payment in return for the cession to the white man of the rest of the territory which was formerly theirs. The annual payment, amounting to four dollars per head a year in some of the treaties and five dollars a year in others, is made with some ceremony to the heads of families: four or five dollars for every man; woman and child.

MOST of the treaties also provided that the Indians should enjoy hunting or fishing or trapping rights in perpetuity—subject to provincial game laws. As it has become necessary in many places to restrict hunting or fishing for conservation purposes, there have sometimes been disputes and grievances. But in many places, as, for example, round James Bay (at the foot of Hudson Bay), conservation policies have brought en-ormous benefits to Indian trappers by replenishing stocks of beaver and other furbearing animals which were being depleted. In the North-West Territories, under Federal administration, and in some provinces, cer-tain kinds of game are reserved to the Indlans who may depend on it for their liveli-

THE Indians who are not under treaty, as in British Columbia and parts of Ontario, are not essentially different from the treaty Indians. In British Columbia, for example, the early British settlers took the land by right of conquest rather than by treaty; but they assured the Indians in the name of the Colonial Secretary that their ancient rights would be preserved to them, and this obligation was assumed by the Government of

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version) Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the cornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away....For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish. (Ps. 1: 1-4, 6.)

Behold, I will make thee a new sharp threshing instrument having teeth; thou shalt thresh the mountains, and beat them small, and shalt make the hills as chaff. Thou shalt fan them, and the wind shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them: and thou shalt rejoice in the Lord, and shalt glory in the Holy One of Israel. (Isa. 41: 15,

That Coal Royalty

(New Glasgow News)

A few days ago it was suggested by several quarters in the Nova Scotia Legislature that the provincial tax on coal be raised, the argument that the cents per ton involved ment being that the cents per ton involved were not worth as much as they were at the time the rate was established.

That is correct—but the coal mining in-dustry of the province is not in as strong a position, either. Then there was not the competition from fuel oil which is today cutting sharply into the industry's markets—domestic and commercial.

There are efforts being made to modernize the province's coal industry—big and daring efforts. If these are successful and coal is restored to its place as a sound member of the provincial economy, then will be the time to consider stepping up the royalty.

Right now it would be folly.

MacTaggart won the spot news award with his story of the discovery last August of the world's biggest meteoritic crater in the barren lands of Quebec. President Fred Stenson spoke briefly, pointing out that it-was a highly successful season in every way. He paid tribute to the support that he had received from all.

At this point W. M. Cruthers took over as master of ceremonies and after a few well-chosen remarks, introduced the guest speaker, W. E. McMurtry, Toronto, secretary Ontario Curling Association.

Guest Speaker

Mr. McMurtry in his opening remarks compilmented the club on the wonderful turnout to this annual meeting. He compilmented Bert Harrison's risk for winning the Colts competition and on behalf of the Curling Association presented to this rink the Harry Sins' Trophy.

He remarked that since the beginning of the century, the curling membership of Ontario has grown from 4,000 to 10,400. He begged all to keep curling clean. He said there was no place in curling for sharp-shooters and hoped the time would never come when curling would be professionalized.

SOUTH BEND LATHES

The world series of professional hockey is coming up with an all-Canadian final between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens. And every redblooded Canuck puck fan will be taking sides. Against our better judgment — sentiment rather than sanity — we'll go along with the gallant Canadiens. Even though Leafs looked better than them during the NHL season. But then so did Detroit Red Wings — and they're in the discard, Canadiens ousting 'em. The Stanley Cup was put up years ago for $50 by Lord Stanley, then governor-general of Canada, and there's considerable prestige (not to mention gate receipts) connected with it.

His Ashburnham buddles will have the welcome maout this week for George (Red) Sullivan. The Rogers St. redhead had a swell pro puck season with Hershey Bears, leading the club scorers, and being fifth among all AHL snipers. When the team lost out in loop semi-finals to Pittsburg, Boston Bruins immediately brought George up, along with two other rookies, and they turned in a whale of an effort against Leafs in the last two games. He was the pick of the Bruins in the final game and made quite a lit with the home crowd. Red should be a cinch to step up as a regular with Boston next season, after playing ball for the summer here.

Speaking Of Sullivan

Roger Barry of Boston wrote recently in the Hockey News: "At the end of World War 2, President Weston Adams.of the Bruins started work on a flourishing farm system. "I want a redheaded Irishman for the Bruins," he told his scouting staff. "Investigate every redheaded player of Irish extraction you can find — don't pass up one." That was five years ago, and George Sullivan may be the result of his search. Sullivan comes from Peterborough, Dit Clapper's home town, and Dit is the one who heard of him first. He tipped off Harold Cotton, the Ontario scout, and Cotton signed Sullivan. He came up through Bruins' chain, playing in junior "B," then with St. Catharines, finally at Hershey — and ultimately

"I'm confident that Sullivan will make the Bruins next-year,' declared Adams.. "Not only does he have mechani-cal ability, he also has a terrific will to win. He is a fine-competitor.' Goalie Harvey Bennett of Providence Reds says of Sullivan: 'He's the fellow I say can't miss. He's strong and tough, and he thinks fast. He'll be a good major leaguer next year.' Sullivan is the most promising of the Bruins' farm crop." High praise, indeed, but George appar-ently rates it all, as he showed in those two Stanley Cup playoff games. He is a fine 20-year-old infielder in baseball and softball, and might well fit into the Petes' diamond scene this summer. Red sparked his softball team to the city title last year and he won the most valuable player trophy, as well, that he started for Bruins in junior "B." He actually started play for Lakefield in junior hockey, though a Peterborough boy, and then came out next year with the local Oddfellows, who weren't affiliated with Bruins till this past winter. Dugan, Sullivan and Montgomery formed a potent Lakefield line against the IOOF-ers that first winter. His success should inspire other young puckists in these parts, as Red had no more than any of them when he started out — except a great fighting spirit, which he still has in large gobs. And he's headed for the top.

The Old Fighting Spirit

Men's section of the Peterborough Curling Club concluded its season with an enjoyable dinner and presentation of prizes at the Aragon Club last evening. A goodly turnof prizes at the Aragon Club last evening. A goodly turn-out, including many of the younger members. A high-light of the affair was announcement that Ira Moore had been made a life member in recognition of his long service to the club, and it is well-deserved. President Fred Stenson and his able executive steered the large list of members through a most successful season the past six months, and they can rest now for a spell—except for those who turn to lawn however, in the off months. ON THE AIR

By Jimmy Hatlo They'll Do It Every Time This annual trip to the National Hockey League waiting wall is performed by some coaches in the hope of lulling the opposition into a fairs sense of security and keeping the home-club players from getting over-confident.

Whether it will have any real effect on the best-of-seven series starting at Maple Leaf Gardens Wednesday night is questionable. As most hockey fans know, a short series often produces a lot of surprises. That was clearly demonstrated in the Montreal-Detroit semi-final which saw Canadiens beat the Red Wings 4-2 in, the best-of-seven series—a feat that was amazing when it is remembered that Montreal beat Detroit only four times in 14 tries during the regular season.

Now the Canadiens are up against a team which lost only two games to them during the regular season. That would make Toronto a wide favorite if it weren't for the still-fresh memories of the semifinal upset.

Up To Leafs

Gord Howe.

It won't be easy to do the same against Leafs. All three Toronto lines demonstrated scoring punch during the Boston series. The most goals came from the lines centred by Ted Kennedy and Max pessimistic.

"Now that they're beaten Detroit I know they'll be in there lines against us and that Coach Dick Irvin will have them flying. All I hope is that it's a good series and that the better team will win."

That left Marlboros trailing 3-2 in the best-of-seven series and cast an ominous shadow over their Memorial Cup hopes. Even it they survive the sixth game in Toronto tonight, they'll have to beat the Flyers in Barrie in the deciding tilt to take the series.

But if the Dukes don't show better form tonight, it's unlikely that they'll see Barrie again un-less they happen to pass through on their summer vacations.

See Slowdown In Buying As Possibility

Rumbles of a let-up in buying tinue to come from the United tes, and there have been some tht evidences of it in Canada—ugh it may only be "the ather" here.

Commenting on the situation across the border, Sam Dawson of The Associated Press says in part:

"The reluctant customer is keeping some over-stocked business men awake at nights. He is also bringing on some price cuts here and there and could prove more effective than the government in rolling back the cost of living.

"Price cuts already have been announced by some makers of television sets. Some farm prices have been declining. Some middlemen in the textile industry have put bargain tags on fabrics and clothing. Banks are asking some manufacturers to pay up their loans by cutting prices if necessary to move their backedup products out of warehouses.

Whip Labor On Move To Cut Cheese Ration

The Labor Government suffered defeat Monday night in the House of Commons over a reduction in Britain's cheese ration.

By a 237-to-218 vote, Commons voted to cancel a government order reducing the ration from three ounces to two ounces a week.

Although the Conservative members shouted "resign" when the count was announced, there was no question of a vote of confidence.

Foreign Secretary Herbet Morrison, for the government, said the decision of the House would be followed and the cut restored. There was no immediate indication as to what steps the government would take to provide the extra ration.

F. T. Willey, parliamentary secretary to the Food Ministry, said during the debate there were not enough cheese supplies to maintain the three-ounce ration.

BOROUGH

THIS COMMEMORATIVE CENTENARY MEDAL, diameter four inches, has been designed and executed as a personal tribute by Peterborough engraver Stanley Hayman. Mr. Hayman has had a few cast in bronze and Monday presented Mayor M. Swanston with one, which was viewed at Council meeting in the evening. The engraver explains the design thus: "The Greek goddess of achievement, Nike, is seated on a rock symbolic of the plateau on which the city is situated. The rock washed by the water of our famous lakes. With her stylus Nike records on a tablet the notable achievements of Peterborough's first civic hundred years, 1850-1950."

The difficulty was temporarily smoothed over and Hatherly took over as secretary, and the meeting proceeded without incident until after 10 p.m. Then Mr. McGuire rose and announced that all proceedings of the council were unconstitutional. That included the election of officers.

It was suggested at this point that the dispute was an internal matter and should not be reported in the press. After some discussion it was declared a closed meeting.

Mr. Hatherly, one of those principally concerned, protested. "I have nothing to be ashamed of," he said. "I'd like the pressman to remain."

When it came to a vote he was supported by Albert E. Thompson, Local 822, Textile Workers Union of America.

DOROTHY DIX Clothes Are Important

ANSWER: Well, my dear, next to having a noble character and being endowed with all the higher virtues, the most valuable thing that a girl can possess is a well-chosen wardrobe. It is a first aid to success, and a rod and staff to lear upon in every emergency of life. The ways in which it will help you are too numerous to mention, but here are a few of them:

Every girl's success in the world depends to a great extent on her looks, and pretty clothes are a stand-in for beauty. These needn't be expensive, but they must be suitable to the wearer and adapted to the occasion. Even and make herself an eye-catcher if she knows her lines and her colors and picks out clothes that flatter her instead of those that throw a searchlight on her every defect.

My parents have their club and lodge meetings and I am left alone, but when I mention going to work my mother says she has enough to do without taking care of the children. What should I do?

LONESOME

ANSWER: You should go to work and make your own life, independent of your self-centered family. If your mother isn't willing to take care of the children, put them into a home until you are able to hire someone to look after them for you. Certainly your brother and his wife are very unsympathetic and selfish in their attitude toward you. So is your mother, for that matter. But that makes it all the more imperative that you should get out on your own as soon as possible, for you can expect no help from them. your brother and his wife are

PEERLESS HEAVY D MOTOR OIL CONTAINS DETERGENTS JUST AS MODERN SOAPS

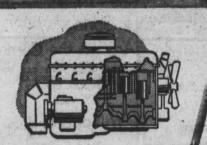

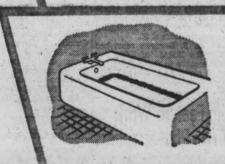

Modern washday detergents have successfully. washed clothes cleaner and have done away with "soap scum". Now, detergent additives have been added to motor oil.

You could actually wash your hands with the detergents that have been added to the new Heavy Duty Motor Oils. Just as these detergents free dirt from your hands, they free sludge, carbon and varnish from vital engine parts.

You have noticed how a non-detergent soap leaves a ring around the bathtub in hard water! So too, a motor oil without detergent additives allows harmful deposits to accumulate on cylinder walls, piston rings and other engine parts.

After using a modern washday detergent in your washing machine you have seen how the dirt is drained off in the water when the tub is emptied! In the same way, sludge, carbon and varnish are held in harmless suspension in the oil and drained away when your crankcase is emptied ... leaving a cleaner motor.

Today's high compression motors must be kept clean internally for peak performance. New Peerless Heavy Duty Motor Oil is Bas's answer to the lubricating demands of these motors. Peerless Heavy Duty contains special detergentdispersant properties that actually "wash your motor while you drive". And it lubricates completely. For late model cars, heavy duty oil is a must. In all models, Peerless Heavy Duty Motor Oil means finer engine performance, longer engine life.

DUNDEE, Scotland, April 11. (CP) - Britain's famed coronation stone was delivered today to the custodian of Arbroath Abbey-a shrine of Scottish Nationalism. The stone had been stolen from Westminster Abbey in London on Christmas morning.

great sincerity" to enable the stone to be "safely restored to the Scottish people and the king." Police collected the Stone of Scone from Arbroath Abbey and took it to Arbroath police head-

OTTAWA, April 11—(CP)—A general, across-the-board jump in Federal taxes—averaging in the neighborhood of 16 per cent.—emerged today as the headline feature of Finance Minister Abbott's 1951-52 preparedness budget.

The main provisions are a boost in the general sales tax 10 per cent. from eight per cent. and an over-all 20 per cent. pist in the rate of personal income taxes.

The result is that commodity taxes are going up immediately on everything the average Canadian buys, except food, fuel, building materials and machinery for farms, fishing and 1951 as result of 20 per cent de-

Liquor and beer taxes, as such, remain unchange though manufacturers may decide to pass on the increase in t sales tax.

Make It Harder To Buy Luxuries

Mr. Abbott made it harder to buy luxuries. He upper to 25 per cent. the 15 per cent. excise tax on such things as mot cars, radios, household electrical appliances, cosmetics, ciga ette lighters, luggage, watches and cameras.

He applied a 15 per cent. luxury tax to householder refr rators, washing machines and stoves, except those using wo

There was tax reduction—a drop of 15 per cent. of the 30 p cent. levy on candy, chocolates and chewing gum. This ta imposed in the "baby" budget of last September, has bee found to be "too severe," but it is up to the manufacture whether they pass the reduction to the consumer.

The budget, placed before the Commons Tuesday night l. Mr. Abbott in a 16,500-word speech, was stiff by Canadic standards, but it had nothing on the United Kingdom budge presented to parliament a few hours earlier.

Ignores Clamor For Price Controls

Mr. Abbott turned a cold s controls to curb the rising cost of living, though he did suggest his budget would help to meet it. But the government, he said, still does not think the time is ripe for direct controls.

He also rejected suggestions, mainly from the C.C.F. party, Leather Workers the impose an excess profits tax: that he impose an excess profits tax:

Peering into the future, Mr. Abbott said he hoped frankly that the international picture would clear and he could reduce or eliminate the new taxes. But, if it didn't and Canada ran into a long period of high defence spending, some "major changes" in the existing tax structure might be necessary. Therefore, the new tax proposals must be regarded as "interim."

Haven't Reached Tax Limit Yet

At another point, speaking about tax sources, he conceded that the government has not yet reached the "practicable limits of the income tox."

Mr. Abbott also announced new tariff changes, effective council under authority given the council last year to expel unions council last year to expel unions council last year to expel unions. immediately, which reduce or eliminate duties on equipment council last year to expel unions used by farmers, fishermen and mining companies. Lock Workers Negotiating 1951 Contract

Local 527, United Electrical Workers, and the Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co. are now negotiating a new contract. The latest company offer is a 12-cents-an-hour increase, to begin with the signing of a collective agreement.

Two hundred production workers are affected.

Here is a summary of the offer made by the company Tuesday afternoon:

A 12-cent general increase.

An escalator clause to be inserted to take care of the cost of living. The formula during the first year of the proposed two-year contract would be a cent-anhour adjustment for each change of 1.4 in the present index which stands at 179.7. Adjustments would be quarterly.

During the second year the same formula would apply but there would be a floor of 175.5 should cost of living take a dip.
On the anniversary date of the agreement there would be an automatic increase of three cents

OTTAWA, April 11 — (CP)—
The government's budget tax proposals "appear to be aimed directly at our working people to force them down to lower living standards," the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada said today in a statement.

The statement was issued from a meeting of the 500,000-member TLC's Executive Council, which had called for tax reduction at a meeting Tuesday with the Cabinet.

Demands For Price Control Renewed By CCL Delegates Quits England

OTTAWA, April 11—(CP)—
Demands for price control were renewed before the government today by the 360,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor.

In its annual brief to cabinet, the Congress said it is "almost impossible to understand" why the government has not used its new emergency powers to control prices and retain control of rents.

It declared federal cradit restrictions and similar measures are "wholly inadequate" and discriminate against low - income workers.

The Congress delivered its submission just a day after Prime Minister St. Laurent had told in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada that the government does not consider price controls at this time would be beneficial. Finance Minister Abbott, in his annual budget speech last night, also ruled out controls now.

The CCL's brief, while saying price control need not necessarily involve wage control, reiterate deal bor's stand that it is ready to take part in joint government consider wage stabilization.

One of the last acts of the Ontario Legislature before it prorogued last week was to pass an Act to tighten supervision over charitable organizations which solicit funds from the public. The Act rose directly out of charges that the March of Dimes (to raise money for the treatment of poliomyelitis victims) and the United Emergency Fund for Britain (UEFB) were mismanaged for the charitable purposes they were supposed to

The controversy over charitable appeals goes back to January when an editorial in Health, a publication of the Health League of Canada, questioned the worth of the March of Dimes campaign. At the end of March, in the Ontario Legislature, the C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe said that the U.E.F.B. had sent only $880 worth of food parcels to Britain from a total of $593,000 in collections. This is scandalous, if true, and there is every liklihood that it is true. Last week the Financial Post carried a long article by a staff writer on the nowdefunct Emergency Fund for Britain in which he called it the "weirdest charitable fund-raising drive that ever happened."

Out of the $593,000 raised only $880 was used to buy food for Britain, which was the main reason for the Fund's existence, and presumably the reason that people gave generously to it. The rest of the money went into an elaborate promotion scheme to encourage others to aid Britain. This scheme was successful, for according to the Fund statement, 1,400,000 pounds of food and clothing were sent, valued at over a million dollars. The point to remark about this statement is that, although food and clothing parcels of that value may have been sent to Britain, the U.E.F.B. did not send them out of the $593,000 it collected. It was sent through the parcel service of the U.E.F.B., handling aid to Britain for some hundred organizations and for thousands of individuals. The U.E.F.B. did this on a profit-making basis. In other words, it was acting as a clearing-house, a post-office and getting a good profit on the deal.

Again we state that according to figures which have not been denied, and, indeed, which are apparent from the audited accounts of the U.E.F.B., the Fund collected in one way or another a total of $593,000 for charitable purposes and itself used only $880 of those hundreds of thousands of dollars to buy food for Britons.

branch offices $128,000; telephones and male in five different countries: telegrams about $11,000. And so on.

Undoubtedly the charitable sending of 1.4 million pounds of food worth just over a million dollars requires organization, and involves administrative and publicity expenses. But $593,000 (less $880 in food parcels sent by U.E.F.B.) is a grossly heavy administrative charge. It further seems that much of the expense was unnecessary to the handling of the thousands of parcels ordered and sent by groups and individuals through

The new legislation brings such bodies as the U.E.F.B. (which very quietly folded up last year) within the Charities ish public health measures, and see what Accounting Act and adds several sections to the Act. Western Royal Winters

We note that the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto came out well in the black this year and was from many points of view - bovine, equine, commercial showmanship and financial — a success So apparently have the Lethbridge Herald and the Brandon Daily Sun noted this. The latter remarked editorially last Saturday that "The Lethbridge Herald wants a Western Royal Winter Fair. It says that they in Alberta are handicapped because of the distance for exhibits to Toronto. (Is this another dig at differential freight rates?) It also naively adds that the time has come when western agriculture should make a it produces each year at the time of year when it can be done properly."

We detect an air of injured pride in this. It happens that Brandon already has a "Manitoba Winter Fair" but it seems, says its Sun that "too few westerners know about our great institution in Brandon." The Lethbridge Herald scouts mentally for a place to hold a Western Royal-Winnipeg? (but it is "on the way to Toronto"-a novel conception to Easterners this); Calgary?-but it already has the Stamporee. The Herald never mention's Brandon's great institution; perhaps its eye is cocked for a Royal Winter at Lethbridge.

From our hide-bound Ontario redoubt we do not know whether to approve this notion of a Western Royal Winter Fair (or Royal Western) in Brandon, Lethbridge. Prince Albert or anywhere out there. It is not that the Ontario Royal Winter could not stand the competition (the East always encourages competition, of course); the problem is that the West might lose thereby both its Ontario showcase and the excuse the affair in Toronto gives Western folk for a lively, loose winter week in the cauldron of wicked gaiety known as Toronto. And if Brandon's winter show becomes a "Royal Winter" will it not lose its character and be, instead of a show-window for the West, a window-copy of Toronto?

Sounds And Smells Of Spring

Lawns are turning green, dust is flying, children have put their marbles away ('miggles' are played now before the snow goes), and last week-end one half the population was on highways and byways while the other half raked lawns and cleaned cars. Some people are even taking off their storm windows. Spring has come to Ontario.

It is happiness to wake up these morn ings to the liquid trill of robins and to smell the earth again, for the sounds and smells of spring delight as much as the sights. There is the dank yet fresh smell of the gully beside the road where pussy-willows are casting their floss and scions and red willow glance in the sun. The countryside feels earthy and fructive. Another Shot At McGee

THE ARDENT EXILE, The Life and Times of D'Arcy McGee, by Josephine Phelan (Macmillan, Canada).

CANADA'S most illustrious immigrant, the CANADA'S most illustrious immigrant, the Irish patriot, journalist, poet, historian and statesman, Thomas D'Arcy McGee, has not been fortunate in his biographers. The reason may be that biographers are usually historians or scholars. McGee, though he wrote a "Popular History of Ireland," saw history through prejudice passion and pleadwrote a "Popular History of Ireland," saw history through prejudice, passion and plead-ing. Although McGee liked to browse in museums and had a taste for letters, he was no exact scholar letting facts fix his fancy. McGee lived on the cuff of life and blog-raphers do not little someone comes along raphers do not. Until someone comes along with the imaginative fire of McGee, the touch of his eloquence, and the virility of his mind, there will be no biography worthy of him—not necessarily of him as he actually was, but of the McGee of Canadian history.

History has made him Canada's only victim of assassination. Other Canadians in noto or esteemed places have been murd hanged, shot, massacred or martyred, but only McGee has been assassinated. Until a biographer writes in a mood and philosophy sufficient to comprehend this meaning of his death, no McGee biography will be satisfactory. Was McGee, called at his death, "assassinated" a myth? Perhaps But the "assassinated," a myth? Perhaps. But the historical fact was that he was dignified and immortalized by that term. This greatness must be communicated in a biography, even if it was a misplaced greatness. And I suspect from reading Mrs. Skelton and the new biography now under review, that McGee was worthy to be assassinated. His biographers have not made him convincingly heroic.

Mrs. Isabel Skelton has written the definitive biography of our hero. It still stands as the comprehensive, authoritative text. Miss Phelah's biography "The Arden Exile," published in March, will probably rank as second in exhaustive importance, and first for readers without time to dip deep into too

The secondary title is "The Life and Times." All the essential facts of his life, from birth and young manhood in harried, nationalistic Ireland; through his American soluter (1848-1857) where the second results of the s sojourn (1848-1857) where he was publicist, exile and moderate Irish apologist in New York, Boston, and Buffalo; to his finding of himself in what he came to call his adopted home-Montreal, Ottawa and the confederated Canada which he helped to form; all these are in the book.

OF his "Times" a great deal has been given in a peculiar, scholarly way. Any event, celebration, boat trip, personality or influ-ence which touched McGee is examined. Nothing within this secondary orbit is left to chance or a foot-note. Because McGee visited for himself in this Irish emigrant settlement how things fared for his countrymen, the writer has obviously made a cursory study of the history of Peterborough and known a post office, a circulating library and several distilleries. This treatment is part of the paraphernalia of a student doing an M.A. or Ph.D. thesis.

It is a good thesis. One has confidence that when she say that "Cartier remained a French-Canadian to the last syllable of his wonderfully accented English speech" she has verified the fact that Cartier spoke English with a marked French-Canadian accent. But it has the limitations of a Ph.D. thesis. The facts are straight but the field has been imited-limited by the requirements of the thesis and by the immaturity of the doctoral candidate. There is pin-point precision but a lack of scope. The trees stand fully described, but the wood is hazy or unnoticed.

One feels that on McGee himself and his mmediate environment the writer is sound When "the 'Shamrock' stoutly tacked and buffeted her way against the prevailing west wind" bearing McGee to America, one is sure that the ship was the Shamrock,' that it did tack, and that there the Atlantic have always prevailed.

A Canadian National Theatre

(Le Soleil, Quebec)
Of recent years there has been much talk about the Canadian theatre. From all sides opinions have fused together or have clashed. It seems that the time has come to do housecleaning in this heap of ideas which are as rich as they are contradictory. The misadventure of "Tiq-Coq" in New York and the national Drama Festival supply an opportunity. Following Messrs. Speaght and Newton, the two latest English judges of the Drama Festival, let us repeat that Canada cannot attain to her full intellectual maturity without possessing a theatre entirely her own, that is to say expressing her proper perso as a nation....For some years the number of actors of importance has considerably increased in our country, especially, it may be said in our province, thanks to bursaries given for study abroad. But, having once returned here, these actors have to do radio and a thousand other things to keep alive. They cannot for an instant think of living by the theaire under present condition From all the evidence, "l'affaire Tit-Coq," that is to say its unsuccess in New York and its continued success in Canada show that in the heart of the Canadian people-as always in the heart of any people in the least advanced—there exists the need of a properly and authentically national theatre

Cold War Strikes Little Man,

Could Be Worse

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, April 11 — (CP) —
Finance Minister Abbott took the cold war in to the pockets of the man in the street Tuesday night but he wasn't as tough as a lot of people anticipated.

From the standpoint of the little man, it wasn't a happy budget. But anyone who can spell Kores probably will feel it could have been worse.

It even had its little rays of sunshine amid the fiscal gloom. To the confusion of, thousands reported to have gathered in stocks of liquor recently, Mr. Abbott left the liquor tax untouched.

With a gesture to the kids, he slashed by half the excise tax on candy, chocolate and chewing sum—to 15 per cent from 30.

There were other boons, too, such as no change in income tax exemptions for certain expenses and medical costs.

But generally the trend was the other way.

He slapped on a new 20 per cent income surtax and called it a "defence surcharge" but it will be just that much more to pay in income tax as of July 1.

He raised the sales tax, probably the most celebrated of all indirect taxes, to 10 per cent from eight.

He took a husky-whack at cars, electrical appliances, jewellery, furs, radios and other luxuries boosting the special excise tax to 25 per cent from 15. He tagged certain household goods—some stoves, washing machines, refrigerators—with a new 15 per cent excise tax.

For smokers he upped the tax on a package of cigarettes to 23 from 20 cents and upped the tax on tobacco accordingly.

Budget Bothers the Whip Who Flattens Fred Atkins

Shortly after he heard of the increased taxes announced in the budget, Whipper Billy Watson came out in furious fashion to hammer Fred Atkins and Tommy O'Toole into submission and win the main team mat bout for himself and Pat Flanagan at the Brock Arena last night. It may not have been the budget black news.

submission and win the main team mat bout for himself and Pat Flanagan at the Brock Arena last night. It may not have been the budget black news alone that made Whip so mad, as he sizziled when the viliains teamed up to pin Flan shortly before, but higher taxes must have raised his blood pressure some. Anyway, a big crowd saw a sizzling scrap.

The final fail came in just five minutes with wat son downing Atkins, with an assist from Pat in the corner. It was a rough session with the Whipper carlier getting his lumps in the opositic corner from the 256-pound Atkins, and O'Toole, scaling 248. Whip went 237, six pounds more than Flan. Twice after the bell, it erupted again with all four in the ring as the excited fans stood around outside and the grapplers fore after each other, Pat and Whip getting all the best of it to the delight of the crowd.

Evened The Falls

Atkins won the second fall over Flanagan in 15 minutes with a double reverse leglock, O'Toole helping him out and Referee Cliff Fox missing the raw deal. After the bell, the angry Whipper chase of O'Toole around the ring and fans tried to trip him, it was hot action, four being in there at times bumping heads and keeping the place in an uproar. The ref could not keep up with things and missed plenty all though, though some interesting the place in an uproar. LOGY, LISTLESS, OUT OF LOVE WITH LIFE?

SPORTS SHOW WINDON

Bob Batley & Co. are looking for two more entries in the men's City Softball League to round out a snappy four-club circuit. That would mean two double-headers a week under the arcs over gowl d'Ashburnham. Mutuals and UEW have signified intentions of re-entering, but no word has been received yet from the East City crew who won-out last year. And, even then, a fourth entry is required. The executive holds another meeting this weekend, April 15, at 2.00 p.m. in the A.A. Hall on George St., when all Fred Young of Chippawa is president of the OBA this year with W. F. Nickle, G. F. Frankland and James Millman year with W. F. Nickle, G. F. Frankland and James Millman vice-prexies. Vern Clark is acting secretar-treasurer for the time being. Executive is: Harry Argent, Tory Gregg. Otto Manske, Al Walker, Carman Bush, Clarence Riddell, Archie Stirling and Al VanGoethem. Apart from Frankland and Bush of Toronto, with Walker of Oshawa, most offices go to Western Ontario or the Niagara district. A certificate fee of 75 cents charged this year for aenior players, with half a buck for intermediates and juniors. Affiliations and finances dropped off some last year, many blaming late playoff touches in the fall.

Imports Are Welcome

The matter of the COBL going independent will be dealt with again by the executive. A move to limit USA imports this season was defeated, both the Inter-County Loop and the Niagara district leaning rather heavily on American players. Thus, Oshawa can import to its heart's content, unless the Viaduct League makes a special ruling for its own members. We would have preferred a yearly limit of perhaps four USA imports in order to encourage home talent. Oshawa cleaned up everything last year but had a packed team with only one or two Canadian players used at all regularly. It may be the same again.

Several other items of business were cleaned up at the annual convention. It was ruled that clubs cannot raid others for players, a release being necessary except in particular cases, when the OBA will pass on transfers. This was aimed chiefly at the Inter-County which has been raiding the Niagara and Toronto circuits. Senior clubs, top two in each loop, will stage a tourney in August to raise finances for the OBA and minor ball, S. H. Armstrong of Toronto was named a life member, and a family memorial fund was set up in honor of the late secretarytreasurer Bill Snyder. Playoffs will be speeded up this year. And high time, too, as the sports seasons really

Whip And Pat Triumph

A guy dropped into the Brock Arena late last eve during the main mat bout and mentioned some of the tax boosts announced in darned peeved he went out and nearly ruined Fred Atkins and Tommy O'Toole. Thus giving Whip and his partner Pat Flanagan the team grappling bout handily. They even showed it was no fluke by repeating the dose after the gong. The fans loved it and went home happily—not yet having heard of the hefty tax boosts. Anyway, it was a redhot mat tussle throughout, despite the ref. Whiskery Ben Morgan won the semi-windup over Timothy Geohagen, whilst the prelim between Pierre LaSalle and Sonny Kurgis was called a draw.

* * * * * * * Bill Gunn goes back as president of the Industrial Fastball League, with Deb Hillier vice-prexy, Don Isaac secretary and Ken Crampton treasurer. Looks like a healthy eight-team loop with Norwood (a newcomer) and Mount Pleasant out-of-town entries to play with Quakers, Westclox, Raybestos, McGinness, A & P, and the Dominion Woollens. Majority of games probably on the classy diamond at Quaker Park, but some out-of-town action, too. Umpirical aspirants—meaning gees wanting to ump — should apply shortly to Don Isaacs, 502 Chamberlain St. (phone 2-1609) or attend, the next meeting of the circuit which will be called in the near future. They'll play fastball once more.

With the exception of Stan Musial, who may lose his $35,000 pay hike, baseball players in general won't be affected by the new government ruling which puts a control on their salaries.

The wage stabilization board in Washington decided Tuesday to put a ceiling on baseball salaries. This is what it amounts to:

A baseball team can't pay any player more than it paid its highest salaried star in 1950.

Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' brilliant outfielder, falls into this category.

Last season Musial, the Cards' highest paid player, received a reported $50,000. This season he reportedly got a $35,000 increase.

But under the rules—which, ipedentally, aren't official yet—Musial would lose his pay hike.

Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees ($100,000), Ted Williams of the Red Sox ($125,000) and Ralph Kiner of Fittsburgh ($65,000) are not affected since they are getting the same salary as last year.

Jail Father, 18 On Theft Count

Pleading guilty to charges of breaking into a Norwood grocery store and stealing some groceries and a watch worth about $100, two Norwood youths, one an 18-year-old married man with a beby daughter, were sentenced to jail. Kenneth Roland Clark, 18, was sentenced to four months definite and one month indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory. Bernard Reynolds, 20, was sentenced to three months in jail.

Clark told the court that the theft was his idea. Reynolds said he just went along with Clark to help him. Clark said in explanation: "I haven't been working steady all winter and I had to have groceries."

"How do you account for the watch?" Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, asked.

Payoff, Costs Griffin Three Months

Undercover OPP Man Won $2 Payoff On Pinball Machine

Charles Griffin, was sentenced in police court Tuesday to three months in jail when found guilty of a charge of keeping a common gaming house at the Glen Lunch on King St.

on King St.

Evidence was that he paid off on a pin ball machine to Constable John Wesley Miller who was working as a gambling investigator for the anti-gambling squad of the provincial police.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., accepted all of Constable Miller's evidence except ruling that one payment of 10 cents made to him was not a pay-off because the machine jammed when there were still two free games left on the machine.

He had first played the machine in Griffin's lunch bar Dec. 2. He put 30 cents into the machine and won eight free games. He played off three of the games and then brought it to the attention of Griffin that he had five free games are the machine and Griffin gave. on the machine and Griffin gave him 25 cents and told him to clear the machine by pressing a button underneath the box of the pin ball machine.

The next day he played it was Dec. 27, the day the machine jammed. He said Provincial Constable Wilmot Hilliard had been in the lunch room and saw him given the 10 cents.

The following day he returned and this time won 16 games on one ball and together with four games he had already won made, had a total of 20 free games to his credit. He said Griffin gave him a dollar bill.

15 More Games.

He said to Griffin, "Here's 15 games Charlie, before the lights go out." He explained if the machine were left idle for a time, the lights go off and there would be no record of the free games he had won.

He said Griffin came along behind the counter and leaning over to look at the machine, said quietly, "Wait till he goes," motioning to Mintz.

Constable Miller then put a nickel on the counter and asked for matches, Griffin gave him, the matches, a 50-cent piece and a 25-cent piece. The constable said that Excellent co-operation from said Ald. Arthur Burrows who opened his hand under the counter for Constable Mintz to see the money Griffin had given him.

Constable Miller said he had never seen anyone else paid off on the machine.

Under cross questioning by T. J. Carley, K. C., defence counsel for Griffin, Constable Miller said there was a card on the machine saying, "For amusement purposes only." Mr. Carley pointed out that the card was no longer on the machine which was brought into court as an exhibit.

Mr. Carley charged Constable Miller with deliberately provoking Griffin into breaking the law. Indian Leaders Strive To Check Population Rise

BOMBAY— (Reuters) — India is looking to birth control to help solve the problem of too many to solve the problem of too many to feed.

India's population is growing fast— in the cities alone it has doubled in the last 10 years— and the means of subsistence is dwindling perceptibly.

While the Indian Government is striving toward increased food production and higher living standards, Indian economists and sociologists have launched a camsociologists have launched a campaign to check the speedy increase in the nation's population.

But the average Indian woman, brought up in traditional conservatism, has yet to grasp the advantages of "planned parenthood."

Measures taken to check rise in population have so far been meagre and the results not encouraging. Little Used Clinics.

Birth-control clinics have been opened in several cities but only a few educated people make use of these facilities. The illiterate Indian masses have yet to be educated about birth control methods and initiated into their use. And there is much mental reservation among average Indians over the e of contraceptives. Some circles feel it is irreligious to use contraceptives and advocate instead, restraint if not total ab-

A leading Indian politician even went to the extent of claiming there was no need for artificial methods of checking population, when natural calemities such as oholera, small-pox and famine took a heavy toll of lives in the sountry periodically. The All-India Women's Conference, which has repeatedly en-dorsed the need for checking the population has not been able to convince the Indian housewife of the need for birth control meth-

The educated middle closses in Indian are becoming increasingly awars of the need for limiting the family, but the campaign has aroused little popular appeal.

The Sarda Canal in India is the longest in the world, with 4,177 miles of branches irrigating 1,500,000 acres.

nink that there would be a great deal less divorce if, before they married, young people would ask hemselves: "Why am I in love with this girl or boy? What with this girl or boy? What qualities does he or she possess that makes me think that I want to spend the balance of my life with him or her?"

psychoanalyze each other ar ascertain what it was made the feel thataway about that par-ticular girl or boy. For we are all in the Docall in the Doc-tor Fell class The reason why we cannot tell, when we are attracted to one individual and re-pulsed by another who both ap-parently are of equal worth and have equal charms.

Love Doesn't Reason

As a matter of fact, we don't love people for their virtues. No man falls in love with a girl because she is a good cook, or because she is industrious, or because she teaches Sunday school, we because the industries the seld of the s or because she is kind to her old parents, or because she is the sort of a girl who would make a good wife. On the contrary, he is far more likely to fall in love with some little flibbertigibbet who is pretty and attractive and lively and who has a way with her.

Nor does a girl fall in love with a man because he is settled and sober and has a prosperous garage. She is more likely to fall in love with a good-looking scamp with a light foot and a nimble tongue and who knows about making love than he about making love than he does about making a living.

Of course, if we picked out our husbands and wives by their good qualities, we would make much more sensible matches than we do. We would marry the homely, sensible Jones girl who has a tidy little fortune and is the best cakemaker in town, instead of the glamorous maiden who hasn't a penny to her name and doesn't know how to do a thing on earth, but whose very touch fills us to the marrow of our bones.

Or we would marry the fat rich widower who is a pillar in the church, instead of the wild youth

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 21. I am well educated, of the studious type, hard working, conscientious and very sensitive. My father earns just enough to keep existing and all my life my greatest ambition has been to get greatest ambition has been to get a good position so that I could earn enough to make things easy for my people. So far I have not been lucky, enough to obtain a very good job, but am working hard and hoping for better things. But here is my trouble: For the last three years I have been going with a boy who wants me to marry him. We love one another very dearly, but I want to help my parents. Besides, I definitely think that I am cut out for the business world. I like office work and I hate housework. What shall I do?

DILEMMA DILEMMA

ANSWER: Nobody can answer that question for you. It is a matter that you must decide according to the dictates of your own heart and conscience. And it is a hard one to settle when affection and pity for your parents pulls one way and young love pulls an-fact that you are going to have us support your parents as long as they live, for your father will make less and less as the years go by, and the whole burden of the family support will eventually fall on your shoulders or the shoulders of the man you marry.

ANSWER: Evidently your girl has a lot more sense than you have in addition to possessing all the good qualities which you enumerate. So I urge you to possess

Another thing is that you are evidently a girl with a natural aptitude for business and that you yourself are as likely to find as yourself are as likely to find as much happiness in espousing a husband. There are plenty of women whose tastes run to type-writers instead of gas ranges and who are far more contented in accounting rooms than they are in kitchens. Still, I am not advising you to sacrifice yourself for your family. You have as much right to your happiness as they have to theirs and if you are sure that life will be cinders, ashes and dust to you without this young man, marry him and trust to luck.

"The most notable feature of our financial operations has been the extraordinary buoyancy of our revenues, which reached an all-time peak and exceeded estimates to variations in our production, trade, incomes and prices, and the unprecedented collections for the fiscal year are essentially a reflection of the high rate of economic activity during 1930, which began to accelerate in Aprill and May, and moved upward and corporate income taxes and corporate income rapidly after the outbrack of hostilities in Korea."

The accusation came from Ross

The debate, started Monday, was interrupted by Finance Minister Abbott's budget. The cost-of-living discusion was still going on at 11 p.m. adjournment.

Mr. Thatcher said Commons members were "alarmed and concerned at the general's repeated and stubborn insistence on intervening dangerously in political matters and international policies beyond his responsibility." beyond his responsibility.

Lured From Lindsay Home Woman Robbed Stage Coach 5

The only woman stagecoach robber in United States history was a woman from Lindsay, Ontario; at least, so claims an author in a recent American publication.

The writer gives the fictitious name for the woman as Pearl Bart, said to be the former Pearl Saylor at Lindsay.

According to the story the Lindsay woman was lured away from her hometown by her husmand, Charley. After a series of unsuccessful ventures and one trip-home to see her mother. Pearl went to the United States. There she became acquainted with an Arizona prospector.

While in Arizona, the Lindsay woman received word that her mother had moved to Toledo and was very ill. She and the prospector decided to raise money for the trip to Toledo by robbing a stagecoach, one of the few then still operating in the United States. In amateur's fashion the coach was robbed and $400 was the net gain. But in making their getaway they became lost and eventually returned to the scene of the crime. Two days after the holdup they were arrested 20 miles from where they started.

The Arizona prospector was tarted.

The Arizona prospector was instead of two.

A Wise Budget

The 1951 budget hits us all, in one way d another, but we think that it strikes ardest where the blows can best be orne. The regulation which will make ie greatest difference to our daily living is the two per cent. increase in the sales tax, and that will bring an immediate crease in living costs, although its ltimate effect, we devoutly hope, will to put a check on inflation. We shall Il feel the surtax on Income Tax, as ell; because the nature of this tax is widely misunderstood, we must make it clear that this is not a twenty per cent. crease in Income Tax, but a tax of venty per cent. added to the sum which now paid in Income Tax: there is a st difference between the two things. This is not a tax which anyone will reard lightly, but we think that the form has taken is a sign that the Governent means to take it off as soon as it possible to do so; it is a surtax, not direct increase in the Income Tax ates, and as such it cannot be easily orgotten or hidden.

The increased taxes on automobiles nd certain other goods which, while not precisely luxuries are getting toward border of the luxury class, were excted. Indeed, it can be said that the udget is not so severe in this respect as many people had predicted that it would The increased taxes on tobacco are exatious, but it must be borne in mind hat tobacco is a luxury, and luxuries Iways have to bear a heavy burden of xation. The spread in price between 3 cents for a package of cigarettes in the U.S.A. and 39 cents for the same number of cigarettes in Canada is a reat one, but our remedy perhaps is to moke less and smoke our cigarettes horter.

There may be some complaint that the axes on liquor have not been increased. Ve must point out, however, that there a certain morality and justice in maters of taxation, and liquor at present ears taxes which are very hard to ustify on any commodity. Taxation may e heavy in time of need, but taxation hould never become punitive.

The increase in corporation taxes is a harp one, but we do not think that cororations will complain. It is better hat corporation taxes should be increasd than that there should be an inrease in Income Tax rates. And it must pointed out that the increase in corration profits tax will make it imssible for most corporations to grant vage increases to their employees. The urtax on income tax may lead some roups of workers to desire a wage inrease, but the increased corporation rofits tax will make it virtually imposncreases. The purpose of the budget to stabilize our economy, not to in rease wages and living costs.

Divinity Does Not Hedge MacArthur

General MacArthur is a great soldier and a great man. His fault was that the discipline which he exacted from all other soldiers he himself would not submit to. Although he was Supreme Comnander he was subservient to a Commander-in-Chief, a civilian elected iemocratically to be his people's president. General MacArthur is too good a soldier not to recognize this. He was not a good enough soldier to accept it. Perhaps we should say it this way: he is not a good enough democrat.

General MacArthur has had little raining or experience in democracy. Military life is hierarchical, authoritarian, and it has been his way of living since he was a young man. At its upper levels-and MacArthur was uppermost -it can be autocratic, czarist. General —it can be autocratic, czarist. General MacArthur has not had the opportunity to temper his way of life in American paths. He has lived most of his life outside continental United States, cushioned from American democracy by his exile, his high positions, by sycophants exile, his high positions, by sycophants and by military success which has semideified him.

All officers reaching generalship must deal in policy and to some extent politics-of the countries in which they are knowledge of the Pacific East, he would not accept the limitations of his position as an appointed officer. Right as his policies could be invaluable as his experience is, he was nevertheless the servant of the American people, not their master; he was the agent of policy, not the maker of it. The danger was not in his becoming a Mikado but a war-lord, in the old imperial Japanese style.

Friends of the United States have been disturbed by the post-war incursion of the military into American diplomacy and policy. Generals have been appointed to high cabinet and ambassadorial positions. Was the military getting too strong a hand in the U.S.A.? troops under the MacArthur command, IT was at the beginning of 1949 that the General MacArthur.

President Truman's decision to relieve General MacArthur of his command reassures the whole world that its chief power, the United States, is in the hands the Polithuro of the All-Union Communist of the people of the Republic, that in Party, was instructed to organize a special fact the U.S.A. is not a country ruled by of the people of the Republic, that in unresponsible war-lords, and that de-mocracy will not let itself be guided by dictators. The authority of a existing armed forces had been subjected to great political purges, but in which also appointed leaders but in democratically was set in motion a vast preparatory work appointed leaders but in democratically elected ones. Even kings rule by right of Parliament. If they do not they lose their heads.

But any estimate of forces in Europe available to Russia must be misleading if it fails to take into account the armies of Russia's satellites. Bible Message (From the Authorized Version) The wise men are askamed, they are dismayed and taken: lo, they have rejected the word of the Lord; and what wisdom is in them?... For they have healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, Peace, peace; when there is no peace...

Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered? (Jer. 8: 9, 11, 22.)

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, be-cause they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters.

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise. (Jer. 17: 13, 14) Be of good courage, and he shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the Lord. (Ps. 31: 24.)

Letter To The Editor

RETURN A SCOT

Sir: As a great admirer of MacDuff and probably his best (and only) friend, I feel that I ought to say a few words in reply to Gerald Tully. (Lang may his lum reek, or, as the Saxons would have said it "Maye ther allwayes bee smoken cumin outta yore chimnee.") So the English wear something under their hats—something containing brains, eh? What a pity they don't use them occasionally. Mr. Tully will realize that nature usually takes care of anything superfluous in or on the human frame (as witness the tail which disappeared from Englishmen about a thousand years after the Scots had shed theirs), and doubtless Mother Nature, realizing that the Scots had only the English to contend with mentally decided that brains were no longer neccessary.

I also have relatives in Australia, Canada and New Zealand, and being good Scots (No, No, Tully, they are still alive!) I'm sure they'll agree with MacDuff.

As for Canada becoming Americanized, this only holds good in some provinces. I'd venture to suggest that Quebec has greater affinity to France than to the US.

There is reported to be a legend, carved on the south side of the Coronation Stone. It reads (in Gaelic of course) "Even the noble Saxon dying, (or should it be dyeing?) dreams he will return a Scot."

I have taken many forms of analgesic, nothing I took seemed to help me. Just recently I read about Sarnak and bought my first bottle. I am thankful to say that Sarnak has been a great help to me right from the very first. It relieve my pain as nothing else! I have taken.

Mrs. George Weston, Selkirk, Man, writes — "I must thank you for what Sarnak has done for me. I am now starting ny fifth bottle. I have suffered with the pain of Varicose Veins for a long time and Sarnak certainly has relieved my pain. The pain was so bad that I was unable to do my housework, but since taking Sarnak I am able to get about as usual."

Mr. M. R. Sereda of Beaverdale, Sask-atchewan, writes — "For quite some time I suffered with Neuritic and Arthritic pains im my left leg and shoulder. I am going to continue with Sarnak for I know it will benefit me."

Mr. Gustav Roemer, 138 Aherns St. W., Kitchener. Mrs. F. Plouffe, Point St. Charles, Montreal, Quebec, is 60 years of age and had suffered with rheumatic pain in the knees and sharp pain in the small of the back. After Mrs. Plouffe had used just one bottle of SARNAK she wrote: "I was in such pain I could hardly do my work and had trouble getting my proper rest. If drawings of scantily dressed women on neckties are to be considered obscene it will be necessary for cows to wear brassieres, Judge Willie Proulx ruled in criminal court Wednesday.

His artistic decision was given in the acquittal of Arthur Stroll who was accused of selling neckties bearing indecent designs of naked women.

His honor said, there was nothing suggestive in the necktie designs, and consequently nothing to excite passion or corrupt the good morals of the public.

"If such sketches of a woman swimmer wearing a loin cloth and a mermald were obscene then it will be necessary for cows to wear brassieres, and dogs diapers," Judge Proulx said.

"The designs are probably replicas of colored advertisements seen in dally periodicals to promote the sale of pink pills for mote the sale of

Closing of 18-Mile Line Hinges On Building Of Large Port Hope Plant;

No Date Set For Abandoning of Old Railway The Board of Transport Commissioners have approve the abandoning of the CNR railway line between Port Hoj and Millbrook. No date has been set for the abandonment

Shortage Of Co-operative Fish Basic Trouble Of Fishing

By JACK SCOTT

VANCOUVER, April 12—
It begins to look as if I am never going to get anything from fishing but insommia and lingering colds in the head.

All Is Work

This morning, when all you smart people were still in your smart people were still in your smug beds, I was out again after the elusive rewards fishing is said to offer. What's more, I was wind burns, callouses and sprains as if they were trophies.

In those days we used to visit a creek where a jam of shingle bolts had created a small and attractive pond so green-glass clear that the trout might actually be seen. For but we used salmonberries, dropped directly in front of the fish's nose, and occasionally we even caught one or two.

This kind of fishing makes some sense because the odds are at worst a hundred to one. But dropping a lure in an oceanand a coid metal thing, at that—always seems to me to be asking Lady Luck for more than the girl can give and invariably fills me with a profound pessimism.

Wind burns, callouses and sprains as if they were trophies.

Myself, I've decided to put the $11.40 down to experience and to continue to brazen out my indocence in my back yard hamming committee's report presented by Miss Margaret McCulboch, Mrs. H. A. Mitchell and C. S. Browne was adopted.

The officers elected are: First honorary president, Mrs. W. B. Brown; president, Mrs. W. B. Brown; president, Mrs. W. B. Brown; presented by Miss Margaret McCulboch, Mrs. H. A. Mitchell and C. S. Browne was adopted.

I mention insomnia as one of the by-products of angling be-cause no fishermen seem capable of going at the thing in anything

As usual, the horrifying prospect of getting up at such a Godforsaken hour kept me tossing and turning most of the night and by the time I'd got to sleep it was time to start worrying about getting up. Sometimes ly-ing there, praying for rain, I got to thinking about all the fish who are spending a restful, undis-turbed evening and how they would chuckle if they knew what we fools were going through.

we fools were going through.

Needless to say, when Lee arrived, looking and acting like a man who has had 10 full hours in the hay and a gross of vitamin pills, I was in no mood for anything but a rather messy axe murder and certain; ill prepared for the customary discussion of for the customary discus

Following Lee's instructions I had bought a large quantity of exotic hardware for a grand total of $11.40 (or enough to keep our house in halibut for a month) and assemblying this, at a time when nouse in nation for a month) and assemblying this, at a time when I had difficulty reising a coffee mug to my lips, was not a way I'd choose to starte a new day.

I was moved to reflect at this point that men will sneer at the ladies who blindly follow the whims of fashion, yet when it comes to fishing gear will follow any expert's dictates. Among my was a thing that looked like ahredded green cellophane (highly touted by Mr. Straight's rival) and I have a hunch that an old salmon-berry would have been as effective. As it turned it couldn't have been any effective.

Straight, himself, conceded that thought-processes of fish are little understood as the thought-processes of women and pointed out that a salmon, a handsome, but moronic creature is just as likely to go for the lead weight as he is for the bright

I mention this to establish not merely the stupidity of fish, but said to offer. What's more, I was sharing a boat with Lee Straight, one of the country's leading authorities on angling.

It was my wistful hope that with an expert along for guidance and to explain the philosophical aspects of the sport, it that's what it really is, I might join that large and presumably happy company of males to whom fishing is not merely a recreation but a way of life.

It wasn't to be. We caught no salmon—anturally we caught no salmon—and while Lee insisted that this was just "the luck of the game," it merely confirmed my old and well-documented prejudices. One of the basic troubles with fishing is the extreme shortage of co-operative fish.

Matter of fact, I still have some lingering affection for the kind of fishing in which fish are actually caught, or the kind I practiced at the realistic age of 12.

In those days we used to visit a creek where a jam of shingle bolts had created a small and attractive pond so green—glass clear that the trout might actually be seen. For bait we used saimon-berries, dropped directly in front of the fish's nose, and occasionally we even caught one or two.

Careful Thief

of going at the thing in anything but the uncivilized hours at dawn.

Straight, being a professional, set a starting hour at a time when habies are being born or airliners are taking off, but when all other life is decently suspended.

As usual, the horrifying anything of the front door of a downtown store stole cigarettes and $3 in silver, then carefully replaced the door panel before making his getaway.

Can Now Wipe Out Tuberculosis MOH Declares "Tuberculosis is theoretically now being controlled but it is possible to completely wipe it out." This statement was made by Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, and guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association, held at the YWCA Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Kelly substantiated this statement by explaining the progress that had been made in the fight against TB in the last 50 years and outlining the possible steps that can be taken to eliminate it completely.

Dr. Kelly continued by explains. Dr. Kelly continued by explaining the latest techniques of dis-covery and treatment used to com-bat TB.

"It is almost impossible to diag-"It is almost impossible to diagnose this disease by a physical examination," he contended. "An infected person does not realize that there is something wrong until the disease has reached an advanced stage. Consequently, X-rays are necessary and important in the diagonsis of TB. If everyone were X-rayed regularly, TB would cease to exist."

Complete Rest In his discussion of treatment, the speaker stated that as yet there is no single drug or treatment that will cure TB. Rather stress is laid on complete rest, which, accompanied by the administration of certain drugs, make recovery hopeful in most cases. Dr. Kelly turned to a discussion of the important role that public relations—education and rehabilitation—play in the fight against TB. He explained that education TB He explained that education a plays both a positive and negative role. It destroys old and untrue ideas and also teaches the importance of the preventative method of X-rays.

Rehabilitation is importnt because it was sometimes a number of months or even years before a patient is able to resume his normal life. mal life.

Dr. Kelly concluded his address by briefly outlining the "splendid" work and progress that has been achieved by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association. He stated that largely due to the members' efforts, the mortality rate for TB in Peterborough is appreciably much lower than that of the province or country. The speaker was introduced and thanked by president L. H. Ingam, who was in charge of the meeting.

Reports were given by the following: R. B. Arnold, treasurer: Charles Allen, in charge of visits and gifts; James Heffernan and Charles Ray.

Following the meeting, tea was served by Mrs. M. J. Swanston and her group. The speaker was introduced and

NEW YORK, (NEA).—Though the predominant skirt in the cotton dress collections is the slim one, there are enough full skirts to make not a trend, but just a trend towards a trend.

Dresses from the collections of three American designers stress the point. Sylvan Rich, in doing a bolero ensemble in French grey linen, uses not the expected slim skirt but a full skirt, falling into soft folds The bolero, like the dress itself, has blue yarn saddle stitching as trim. The bolero hides a sun-top.

A sleeveless brown broadcloth dress by Betty Barclay has the full skirt, this time given an inverted oleat that starts at the waistline. High, round neck and armholes are banded in white pique. Deep pockets, too, have pique trim.

Jerry Parnis, in doing stroyelly striped pique, uses white with a purple stripe. A one-piece dress with a pyramid decolette, it has shoulder cap sleeves. The skirt deceptively full, made soft by wide box pleats that start at the waistline.

Deep-Sea Surveys Show Marine Food Off Africa

COPENHAGEN (CP) — The Danish expedition investigating marine life in the world's oceans has already reported such a large amount of organic matter along the African west coast as to promise great possibilities for fishing in that area.

Radioactive substances are used in the study, yielding new and important information about the riches of the sea. The substances can be used to ascertain the amount of organic matter produced by underwater plants and with this information scientists are able to indicate whether large or small quantities of fish life can be maintained on the food available.

The deep-sea expedition aboard the naval frigate Galathea was organized by Haakon Mielche. Danish author, with the aid of leading Danish scientists including Prof. Niels Bohr. atomic specialist, and Dr. Anton Bruun of the Copenhagen Zoological Museum.

The Galathea stopped first at London on its projected two-year and in the first stages of its cruise reached Madagascar last month. Conditions in relation to maintenance of fish life will be examined everywhere on its route around the world.

MARY MOORE SAYS: Deep Glass Pie Plates Prevent Juice In Oven

This is one of those weeks that is so jam packed with work, fun, appointments and offsprings' activities, that I truly wonder what state of mind and body I'll be in when Sunday morning dawns.

I keep quiet about my own chores, but Marianne and Pete are in an amateur play and the furore and commotion over it are terrifice.

Besides the line rehearsals that they (11 'teen-agers) hold in our living-room, and the dress rehearsals at the church, and me being everybody else in the play that my two are not (when they practise alone at home), and making cakes to serve after rehearsals when they are in our house, and providing a chesterfield and drapes, car rug and the vacuum cleaner for props... well the house and I are wrecks.

The telephone rings incessantly right up to midnight.

So it is so peaceful this morning to sit at my familiar and patient typewriter and tell you my woes—and you can't answer bact—that is, not for a week anyway.

Instead of a topical article today I have to use this space for answers-to readers.

Dear Mrs. Moore: I would appreciate so much your reply the following questions:

(1) I have a new automatic electric stove. When the jude from a fruit ple runs over the smoke pours out the exhaust pipe at the back of the stove and also all around the oven door. Is this usual in extreme smoking?

(2) My recipe for meringue calls for 4 egg whites, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon cream tartar, ½ teaspoon vanilla. I baked this in a deep pie plate at 275 degrees Fahr, for 10 minutes then reduced heat to 235 for another 30 minutes. When removed from oven it was level, but in a short time fell till it was only about ½-inch thick. Was it not cooked long enough?

(3) The filling for above meringue calls for 4 egg whites, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon cream tartar, ½-teaspoon vanilla. I baked this in a deep pie plate, and rind Cook, stirring, in top of the cream into the cooked and cooled lemon mixture and specific remore for mixture into them benediction of the formal provided and cooled lemo

I have eaten this dessert when the meringue was 1½" thick with a lemon filling at least ½" and then the mon filling at least ½" and then then the mon filling at least ½" and whipped cream. distribe against women who are the mothers of boys I have known all my life.

ANSWER: Probably the reason that girls resent their boy friends showing any attention to their mothers is because they want to monopolize all of their time and money. The thought that Tom or John is giving Mother-a good time while they are sitting at home turns them sour.

Nobody, however, can explain the antagonism that virtually all young women feel against the mothers of the men with whom they go about. It sems to be congenital, like the hatred of snakes, with which they are born. No matter how angelic Mother may be, no matter how cordial and friendly, they look upon her with suspicion and resentment and are far more jealous of her than they are of any rival of their own age. Should be Sympathetic

Considering that all girls have mothers and expect to be mothers themselves, you would think that their attitude toward boys's mothers would be full of understanding and sympathy, and that they would applaud Sam and Bill for their attentions to their mothers. But, unfortunately, girls don't feel that way. They think they should have the orchids, the candy, the theatre tickets and the automobile rides and that they are being defrauded of their just rights and privileges when these favors are bestowed upon a mere favors favors are bestowed upon a mere favors favors are bestowed upon a mere favors favors favors f

Hence the claws.

It is selfishness. It is greediness.

It is possessive instinct. It is jealousy of the woman who was a man's first love and who has been part of his life that makes girls setty shout man's means the part of the selfish setty shout man's methers. girls catty about men's mothers. And there is no help for it. They were born that way.

Not long ago, however, he threw a thunderbolt into our peaceful home by suddenly telling me that he was tired of me, that he had ceased to love me, that he was through and was going off wilf another woman, and that I must get a divorce. He went, and in less than three weeks he was back, crestfallen, disheveled, humble and penitent, begging me to forgive him and take him back and never to mention the matter again. I promised and am making good on my word. The woman seems to have disappeared into thin air. I don't understand men. Are they all like this? MARY ANSWER: No woman under-

The Disunited Kingdom

The theft of the Stone of Scone brought forth a great deal of humorous nent: its return will probably bring forth more. But the theft of the Stone and what lies behind it are serious matters. The desire of Scotland for a greater share in its own government is no joke, and we feel that the Government of the United Kingdom would be wise to give serious attention to it. There are Scottish nationalists who want complete independence from England. This appears to us to be an unworkable and silly scheme; but a wider degree of auomy in dealing with specifically Scottish affairs might well be accorded to Scotland, and vested in an assembly resembling our provincial parliaments And when that was done it would be wise to grant a similar autonomy to Wales. Scotland has, by constant pressure and agitation, achieved a Secretary who has limited powers to deal with Scots affairs; Wales has never been able to get even that degree of recognition as a separate people with special needs. Unless Scotland and Wales are treated with greater seriousness at Westminster, the United Kingdom may become the Disunited Kingdom, and that would be a bad thing for the world at large.

The British are admirable colonial administrators—perhaps the best the world has ever known. But they have been unfortunate in their dealings with the British peoples who are nearest to them, and in consequence they have lost most of Ireland. British policy among the Celtic peoples has been repressive: local cusas and native languages have been treated with harshness; to this day the attitude of Whitehall officials in dealing with local matters in Wales is marked by a pig-headed refusal to consider local conditions. It is as though the English, so solicitous of the nationhood of black men in Africa, regarded the nationhood of the Scots and Welsh as mere eccentric refusal to be English. This attitude has been borne with humour and mild resentment, but the nationalist movements in the two Celtic countries still included in the United Kingdom are enough to break away from England, or that they really desire to do so. But they can be nuisances, and they can weaken Britain and exhaust her strength in internecine jealousy. They should be given what they want in order to pacify them; what they want is little enough, and amounts in effect to such local power as the Canadian provinces possess.

Let us make our point clear: we do not favour extreme and petty nationalism in Scotland and Wales; we do not think ism of any B given much encouragement in the mod- cities which appear in their newspapers. ern world; it is internationalism that we In the Lethbridge Herald, for instance, need. But to oppress, neglect and laugh we read about a sport called "curb cruisat the limited national aspirations of ing"; it appears that young men in Leth-Scotland and Wales does foster piffling bridge drive about the streets at this nationalism and extreme feeling. Elm Street itself has conlected petition to have its name changwith local affairs would assuage their national ambitions, satisfy their very real and commendable desire to preserve their special characteristics, and make them firm friends with the English.

Why the English do not see it that way is beyond our comprehension. English stubbornness has always been hard for other nations to understand. Scotland and Wales have done well by England in A girl who rides in a car with a young war and peace, but England has always accepted their unstinting gifts as her The greatness and leadership of England in the United Kingdom is beboasted that they are the brains of Engthe border. Korea extended. We are trying to prevent a world war-not to start one." So broadcast speech Wednesday night day, April 28. about General MacArthur's removal from his Pacific commands. The word of the President does not stand alone. His action has spoken loudly to the whole world. Britons, Frenchmen, Canadians, hundreds of thousands of Americans, and people on both sides of the Iron Curtain feared that General MacArthur's policies carried a "very grave risk of war." So did President Truman, and they are his words. General MacArthur wanted to bomb Manchuria, MacArthur wanted to bomb Manchuria, to re-arm the Chiang Kai-shek nationalists and push them back into China against the Mao regime. To many people. even sincere friends of the United States and ardent admirers of General Mac-Arthur's abilities, this seemed at best to be launching a "preventive war"-but still war. To others it seemed to be war-mongering.

The removal of General MacArthur gives the lie to the assertions of Communists, pinks and discrediting critics that the United States wants to make war and is preparing for war, and not to defend the peace. What greater proof of the sincerity and reality of the American desire for peace can there be than the dismissal of its most illustrious general, its chief field expert in Far Eastern warfare and the hero who brought the war against Japan to a successful finish? The great General was ousted not from one but all his commands. The President's order to General MacArthur is a historic statement on the side of peace: "I deeply regret that it becomes This is not to suggest that the Welsh and Scots nationalists are powerful enough to break away for the United States military forces to replace the United States military mander of Allied powers; commander in chief. Judge Thomas Barton made the criticism after he was forced to close his court for the third day this week, within minutes of its opening, because no lawyers turned up to represent clients.

He gave crowded calendars as the reason and suggested "a way out of the situation is greater cooperation between lawyers and court officials.

An enthusiastic, near-capacity audience was treated to excellent, absorbing, amateur drama Thursday at the first night presentation of the play, "The Late Christopher Bean," by the All Saints' Anglican Church Dramatic Club, in the parish hall.

The stage setting brought the first appreciative applause from the audience. It was designed by Eric Bills.

The discovery that a supposedly untalented artist, Christopher Bean, whom a New England country doctor and his family befriended before his death, painted pictures of genius and the subsequent confusion and search for some of his pictures provides the plot for this three-act comedy.

All three acts are set in the dining-room of Dr. Hagget's country home, not far from Boston. A sub-plot is the romance between the doctor's daughter ton. A sub-plot is the romance between the doctor's daughter Susan, played by Marilyn Galbraith, and a budding young artist, Warren Creamer, Don Ketchabaw.

Character development was another interesting feature. The birth and growth of greed in Dr. Haggett, played by Joe Gatfield, after the discovery that he can make thousands of dollars from the paintings of his dead patient was ably interpreted. The seeds of this greed were planted and fostered by the doctor's wife, played by Edith Abraham, and his other daughter, Ada (Barbara Outram).

Some Really Enjoy It
Some guys actually enjoy umpiring ball games. Yes, and it isn't only for the money involved—though that helps, of course Quite a few chaps like the game and want to be part of it after play. ing days are over. Others enjoy interpreting the many tricky rules and plays that crop up in every diamond display. Few seem to mind the squawks of players or the razzberries tossed out by fans. Any who do mind should get out of the business right smartly. It's all part of the game. Umps have a lot of authority during a gam and they no doubt like that in a dignified sort of way-like judges in court. Anyway, the girls' and men's softball loops and the fastball circuit right now are looking for competent arbiters.

Tommy White, London pitcher, agrees with old Cy Young that modern hurlers don't get enough work. Tommy feels his se-se season last year was because he didn't get enough turns on the mound. Cy Young, only big league twirler to win more than 500 games, claims present-day pitchers don't work enough. He pitched every third day with a fireball, almost exclusively, and never had a sore arm. Cy thinks four starters and a relief man should be enough for any pro club. In that case, three or four flingers should certainly be plenty for an amateur club like the Petes, for instance. Provided they were pretty defendable chuckers. Surely one game a week isn't too much workor even two, for that matter.

Weather permitting, the Petes will have an open baseball work out at 1.30 tomorrow aft in the Exhibition Grounds, as Riverside isn't in shape yet. More Penalties For Hooking Likely In 1952 NHL Play

TORONTO, April 13 (CP). —
Increased protection for goalies and more penalties for hooking and charging will probably be the chief changes in National Hockey League play next season. In addition, there is a possibility that the centre ce red line may be eliminated, allowing forward passing anywhere up to the opposing blue line.

These were the main points discussed Thursday at an informal meeting of NHL representations.

"As the ratio of goals goes down you have a corresponding increase in tie games." He said. "We don't want to open up the game so as to make scoring too cheap but we think that a stronger stand against hooking, alone, will bring about what we want." He said hooking with the stick "curtails the scoring possibility, especially in the end zone." If this were reduced, there would be more scoring, thus fewer tie games.

The subjects discussed will come up for official attention at a meeting of the NHL rules com-mitee next month. Then an official draft of recommendations passed will be sent to the general league meeting late in May.

"This has been one of the most useful sessions as regards rules discussions that I've ever been in," said president Clarence Campbell, who presided. With him as another league represen-tative was referee-in-chief Carl Voss. Four referees—George Gra-vel, Bill Chadwick, Hugh McLean and Red Storey—also attended. and Red Storey—also attended.
Campbell said the meeting had no power to adopt any changes. It could only discuss them.

The excessive number of the games was discussed but there were unofficial indications that no move would be made to bring back overtime periods to regular eason games.

Tells Thief He Stole Woman's Memories

By JACK SCOTT

This one is addressed to a thief who stole a trunk from a parked car last January. The haul must have been a disappointment to you. It consisted largely of embroidery and fancy work. But, in fact, what you stole were an old lady's memories. The irunk belongs to a gracious old Swedish gramdmother. You'll have noticed a quaint little Swedish dress. That belonged to the old lady's daureter when she was three. The hooked rug is something you could never sell. It is priceless to this woman because it was made by a son who died soon after. Indeed, every item is a precious link with the past. Until yesterday relatives were able to keep news of the theft from ner but now she knows and she is taking it very hard. So I am wondering if there is any way you and I can get the trunk back where 't belongs Lei's hear from you.

The action was taken under a so-called anti-aggression resolution adopted by the UN General Assembly last fall. It is intended to provide a veto-free plan to combat aggression anywhere.

Mounted Police Has Good Ideas For Youngsters

"Jim" is Constable James

Youngsters drop in almost daily to talk to Archer. Some want to talk about getting a job after school or about opening a savings account. Some are in trouble and think "Jim" can help them. Some just come in for a chat/because this policeman is their pal.

Constable Archer is one of many R.C.M.P. officers in various main centres who are working full time with youth.

New taxi rates based on the mileage of trips will go into effect in Peterborough May 1, as a result of a decision reached by the Police Commission Thursday.

The new rates that were proposed by the Peterborough Taxi Owners' Association start at a basic 50-cent charge for one or two passengers travelling up to a distance of two miles.

For each additional mile or part of a mile, the passenger will be charged an extra 25 cents. For each passenger over the two, the charge is 25 cents if they are all going to the one destination.

But for each separate stop, the charge will be 50 cents.

Charges For Children Charges For Children

There will be no charge for one, or two children under 10 with an adult. For each additional child under 10 the taxi driver will charge half fare. Full fare will have to be paid for children 10 or extended.

The cost of holding a taxi will be a $2 an hour rate and the charge to be carried back to any point within the area will be a fixed rate of 50 cents.

fixed rate of 50 cents.

The driving rate for distance will be $2 an hour or 12½ cents a mile for any type of passenger. The taxi will carry one handbag for their passengers free, but for each handbag in addition there will be a charge of 10 cents.

Hiring a taxi for a funeral will cost $5 and for a wedding $6. These are up $1 from the previous rates. OAC Course

Taxi Owners' Request

In a letter to the commissi outlining the new proposed taxi rates, the Taxi Owners' Associa-tion said: "In view of the fact that many owners require an inincrease in living, maintenance and equipment costs, we now sub-mit our proposals which we be-lieve are reasonable . ."

The letter said that the new rates had been passed by a 21 to eight majority of taxi owners, with six net voting. The assession with six not voting. The associa-tion was represented at the com-mission meeting by secretary William Kemp and James Don-

Smoke, chairman of the board, "that if you call a taxi, the taxi should be yours, especially when arriving on the midnight train." He said he thought a passenger should have the taxi to himself and not have to be driven all over the city while other passengers were delivered.

At present the taxi rates have started at 50 cents for trips which did not cross McKellar St., which was a boundary agreed upon beyond which the charge would be 75 cents. Taxi drivers have felt for some time that this was not a satisfactory arrangement. Taxi meters were considered, but turned down by most of the owners.

Development Will Affect All District; Peterborough Canoes, "Kicker" Motors Essential To Prospectors In Labrador

Peterborough comes closer to being a mining town than most of its citizens realize, R. D. MacDonald, Ph.D., assistant professor of geology of Queen's University told the Kinsmen Club at the Kawartha Club Thursday night. A large iron ore deposit has been found in the Marmora district. And products the city manufactures and ships out are used exten sively in prospecting throughout the north country, the geologist said, Dr. MacDonald geologist said. Dr. MacDonald said that there was a possibility that the Marmora deposit amounted to 100,000,000 tons of iron ore. Peterborough will feel the effects when the Bethlehem Steel Co. begins to develop the deposit.

L'eterborough companies would be supplying much of the equipment that will be used if the project goes ahead as expected.

But that was in the future. For one many years past, Peterborough thas been helping in the exploration and search for minerals in throughout the north by supplying canoes and "kickers" or outboard motors to prospectors.

GUESTION: What is the old song about having someone to tell your troubles to. I have told mine to you and have had a very wonderful listener.

My trouble now is pancakes for lunch. My two aunts are coming to visit us for a few days and I would very much like to serve them pancakes and maple syrup, but I do not know what else to serve with them. Would you please give me a few suggestions as soon as possible.

ANSWER: Serve crisp side bacon, or broiled back bacon, or broiled back bacon, or tiny link pork sausage or sausage meat cakes or broiled slices of liverwarst with ordinary pancakes. Could I suggest that you vary your pancake menu by serving German Potato pancakes? These are made by beating 3 eggs well into them grate on fine grater 3 medium sized potatoes. A group of independent judges examined thousands of entries for Monarch's $10,000 Prize Contest. They awarded Mrs. Janet Bailey of Windsor the second prize . . . a beautiful Holt Renfrew Persian Lamb coat. Here's how thousands of Canadian housewives praised Monarch Ready Mixes in their letters!

"You'd hardly believe a cake could be so light"

That's one of the things on which practically everyone was agreed. And how right too. Monarch Ready Mixes make the most deliciously melting creations . . . so light and fluffy . . . so full of flavour. You simply don't need the master pastry-cooks "light touch" to succeed with Monarch Ready Mixes.

"There's nothing to equal Monarch for results"

Most entrants to the Monarch Dream Kitchen Contest had tried all ways of cakemaking . . . and settled on Monarch Ready Mixes as the sure way to get perfection every time. They enjoy the convenience . . . no flour sifting, no adding of eggs and sugar and shortening. In fact nothing to do but just add water and bake. And there are tested recipes on every package. You simply can't help getting perfect results.

Festival Recalls Fashion Changes Over 100 Years

By MURIEL NARRAWAY, b
LONDON (CP). — Britain's women of fashlon are wondering which of today's styles will be remembered as typical of Festival of Britain year.

Will it be pagoda flare given to figure-fitting evening dresses by Digby Morton or the bell-basqued suits with long revers and nipped whist popular with Stiebel? Perhaps it may be the fan-shaped line given to afternoon dresses by Hardy Amies, or the asymmetric-line favored by Mattli.

Whatever the styles ear-marked for posterity, it is doubtful whether they could compete in fame with the marked major changes in women's wear recorded at the time of the 1851 exhibition—first British Arts and Trades Fair and torerumner of this year's Festival of Britain.

For instance, 1851 saw the launching of Mrs. Amelia Bloomer's campaign for trousers for women. Her "bloomers" were merely a voluminous, knee-covering forecast of today's short bloomer pantles used for both play suits and beach wear, but they startled the fashion world of that day.

Although a far cry from the neat slacks of later years, bloomers heralded female encroachment on masculine fashions. Elegant Victorian women soon wore embroidered waistcoats, until then the exclusive property of the young male dandy.

90-Year-Old Mrs. Sam Ray Native of Cavan Cty., Ireland

There's a grand old lady in this city with whom to spend an hour is to gain in knowledge, and in respect for the elderly. She will celebrate her 90th birthday this Sunday, April 15.

Mrs. Samuel Ray lives at 687 Water St., in the home which was purchased 39 years ago this month. It is a large house as was fashionable in 1912 and is furnished with some beautiful antique pieces and handwork which are the pride of her and her daughter Mrs. Ellen Patte who now lives with her.

A Httle, Irish lady with typical, ready wit, Mrs. Ray was born in Cavan County, Ireland, Ellen Philgate Eakins. She was brought up, with ten other children, under the rigid discipline of an Irish squire of whom it was said "He never raised his rents", she recalls. Her father, though strict with a daughter who was a bit too intrepid for a girl of those times, maintained a very happy home, and it is her delight to recount incidents of her young life and schooldays.

Patent medicines are, in the main axatives. Whether laxatives are good or bad is a matter of dispute. But for decades the people of this continent have been assured that unless their bowels move every day they are in less than perfect health, and a huge trade in laxatives is the result. SUNDAY: It was my job today to help in entertaining several children, and with recollections of my own childhood and my preferences in entertainment foremost in my mind I shepherded them to a large sandpita sort of sand quarry-in the country. While cine are convinced I stood in the sun and thought about life, the children rushed up steep cliffs of sand, fell children rushed up steep cliffs of sand, fell down precipices of sand, plur.ged from great heights into heaps of sand, and pretended to be cowboys, pirates and General Wolfe attacking Quebec. They got dirty, but I had decided that it didn't matter; they shrieked, but the open air is the place for shriekers; they exhausted themselves, and the sun restored them. For one hour they led an utterly uninhibited life, and refreshed themselves with that laughter of childhood which feeds on itself. Then I hauled them home, stoked them with large quantities of food, stoked them with large quantities of food, and they were astonishingly good and quiet for the rest of the day.

MONDAY: Received a letter this morning from a cow, or it may simply have been from somebody who takes orders from a cow; I couldn't quite make out. It appears that when I made public my intention keeping a cow in my cellar I suggested that cows saed their horns annually; the letter denied this. It is possible, though improbable, that I am wrong. I am not sure I would know a cow if I met one. A certain cloudiness of vision, caused by long hours poring over the Scriptures, makes it impossible for me to-identify an animal or even a human being at a distance of more than five feet. The cows which Santa Claus employs to draw his sleigh certainly have horns, for I have seen pictures of them. But if cows do not shed their horns, how comes it that cow horns are so plentiful? Cow horns are used to make horn-rimmed spectacles, snuff boxes for Scotsmen, powder-horns for outlaws, ink-horns for scholars, horns for automobiles, and for a variety of purposes. Am I expected to believe that all these horns come from dead cows and represent a lifetime of patient horn-growing? No, no, I am not so toolish as Until I am shown otherwise I shall believe that cows shed their horns each spring.

TUESDAY: Was buying a drum of tobacco for my pipe this morning, when I observed that the tobacconist had boxes of snuff on his shelves, so I enquired who used it, sold a small but constant quantity of it, he said, to a few customers who persisted in this now unfashionable addiction. He sold a much greater quantity of Copenhagen snuff, which is chewed or sucked, and he told me that a real snuff-dipper makes away with a box of this stuff a day... I have taken snuff my-self, as a means of easing a catarrhai aliment scorn my assertion that the snuff helps, but I am convinced that it does so. I do not con-sume much snuff—perhaps a pinch or two a day-and I go to a good deal of trouble to obtain a fine maccoboy, which is the mildest snuff made. The next in strength is called rappee, and I find it a little too sharp for liking. Even stronger than rappee is my liking. WEDNESDAY: Life without apples would be a poor thing. I eat them as long as there are any to be had, beginning with the green ones in early autumn and persisting with the pulpy objects which pass as apples at this time of year. Today I ate an apple which was barely recognizable as such; which was barely recognizable as such; it had a rather loose and wrinkly red skin, like that check of a very old woman, and its flavthe cheek of a very old woman, and its flavour suggested that large grafts from a potato plant had been added to the apple tree. A more orderly, quiet place i would be hard to picture. And a more staid relaxed group of men than the staff would not quickly be found. Everything moved with gentle ease. Where, I wonder, did the legend begin that newspaper offices were lunatic asylums, filled with shrieking hood-lums, and dominated by latter-day Caligulas with blue pencils in their hands and murder in their hearts? I would say to Hec (I address this reply to him merely because of his shorter nom-de-plume and not as a slight to your correspondent who claims the illustrious parentage) that this argument is ridiculous.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version) I will praise thee, O Lord, with my whole heart; I will shew forth all thy marvellou works. I will be glad and rejoice in thee: I will sing praise to thy name, O thou most High. When mine enemies are turned back, they shall fall and perish at thy presence.

For thou hast maintained my right and my cause; thou satest in the throne judging right. Thou hast rebuked the heathen, thou hast destroyed the wicked, thou hast put out their name for ever and ever.

O thou enemy, destructions are come to a perpetual end... But the Lord shall endure for ever; he hath prepared his throne for judgement. And he shall judge the world in righteousness, he shall minister judge-ment to the people in uprightness. (Ps. &

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Rom. 12: 1, 2.)

"I have been subject to so much criticism about the market, that I think we should get it settled first," said Ald. E. C. Braund.

A gravel pile of the board of works will have to be removed, and the lot fixed up, probably by early in May.

A plan of the property was considered essential to its alloca-tion for use. That preliminary step was proposed in a motion by Ald. Braund and Mayor Swanston.

"We should also decide on a set-back from the sidewalk," Ald. Doug. Miller suggested. One estimate was that about a third of the property would be ample for market space.

City Clerk Outram advised that when the plan is ready, the committee might advertise for rental ground space that would not be needed for the market. That would give any person interested an opportunity of bidding for oc-cupation.

A chunky, dark, youngish looking man is in Peterborough today, stopping off for a holiday between Manila, the Philippines, and Tokyo. He is W. D. Wallace, Vice-Consul at the Canadian Consulate General in the Philippines, and now about to take up a similar post in Tokyo. Mr. Wallace is a native of Fernie, BC, but since he has been with the Department of Trade and Commerce he has seen Trade and Commerce, he has seen little of Fernie, and for that matter, of Canada. With him is his wife, who is a native of Elizabeth, New Jersey. They met when Mr. Wallace was in the New York office of the Department.

How are things in the Philippines? Unsettled, but on the whole good and getting better.

"They have a long way to go. But it's a new country," Mr. Wallace said cheerfully. Independence came to the Philippines in 1946, after 300 years of Spanish rule and of American.

So of American.

Merchants Warned Counterfeit Money Circulated In Area

A trail of counterfeit $10 bills is turning up through the Peterborough district following the arrest of three Toronto men Wednesday night near Grafton by provincial police.

Mr. Wallace believes that the Philippine Islands have a bright future, once the pattern of good government is established. Progressively tariffs may be imposed until they are in full effect by 1975. Meantime it is a hard market for other nations to enter.

City Has Three Exprop riation Proceedings In Court, One Has Wa ited Three Years

The city took his property three years ago, and he hasn't seen a nickel for it.

That was the assertion of Ald. Norman Graham in asking this week for a report from Alex. L. Elliott, K.C., on the city's action in expropriating the Brown property opposite the filtration plant.

Ald. Harold Rehill, the other new member of the 1951 council, asked the same question several weeks ago. The substance was: how can the city take a man's property and not pay him for it.

Actually there are three expropriation proceedings in the city's hands at present. Two of the properties that have been occupied for the city hall site, the Best property that was 501 Water St., and Seabrook or former Hancock lot that was 492 George St., have not been paid for.

McKell, Labor premier of New South Wales when he was appointed to the £10,000-a-year most, took 36 hours to make up his mind.

His problem was that he had no precedent. The only other double dissolution in the 50 years of Federation was in 1914 when the Senate defiantly rejected a bill on the first reading.

There was no precedent to establish what the constitution meant by "fails to pass."

However, McKell took his prime minister's advice and graved the dissolution.

Then the government introduced a bill to repeal the Bank Nationalization Act and to amend the Commonwealth Bank Act.

The only controversial aspect of this bill was a provision that the bank's policy should be determined by a board consisting of four treasury officials with three representatives of business, manufacturing and pastoral interests.

The climax came last month when the government decided on drastic revision of arbitration law.

This cut across Labor party policy largely influenced by the views of former prime minister, Joseph Chifley.

It also decided to introduce amending legislation giving the amending legislation court power to punish through contempt of court proceedings any defiant of an arbitration tribunal's decision or order.

Labor replied that it would oppose this legislation.

Labor's argument was that a

It's as Canadian as Brock's Monument! The designers, A. Holmes & Son, deserve much credit for careful handling of details. There is no strained effort to be authentic, yet the spirit of Canada of old is present in every line! Notice that the facade is white clapboard, while the side walls are red brick. Avaid Condensation

Avoid Condensation A most important point in new installations is to be sure to avoid sweating on the lights until after the glazing has set and been painted. Ventilation will reduce condensation in winter installation. This is especially important in inside glazed sash. A freshly poured concerete floor should be allowed to dry thoroughly before Careless, hurried glazing in the winter often creates failures due to improper bedding. Paint often seals joints and reduces this chance of failure. This is another reason for painting all jobs pro-perly after glazing.

"It makes me wonder if the advantages of modern education haven't a good many strings to them. I look at the long rows of automobiles drawn up before every school waiting to take home children who don't live a half dozen blocks away, and I think of the two miles each way I walked dozen blocks away, and I think of the two miles each way I walked twice a day to the little red school house. Nobody there tried to make going to school a picnic. It was work. Nobody tried to make getting an education easy for us. We were given hard lessons and made to learn them. We missed all the educational frills, of course, but there has been many a time in my life when I have stiffened my backbone and stood up to a hard task because of the Cears I shed over the arithmetic problems that I had to wrestle with until I solved them.

"Another advantage that I had as a child was plenty of whole-some neglect, and that's some-thing that the poor, unfortunate children of conscientious modern mothers miss. Children were ex-pected in my day to keep in the background and not occupy the centre of the stage, and that taught me a proper place in the scheme of things the has stood me in good stead all of my life.

"I wonder sometimes if the youngsters who have to be taught to play, and who are being brought up on a cut-paper patatern, and who talk about their nerves, are going to get as much fun out of life, or go as far, or fight their battle as valiantly as their grandparents have.

"In my childhood there were not so many books and papers and magazines as there are now and, thank heavens, there were no children's versions of masterpleces so we didn't have the cream skimmed off of good literature for us before we were old enough to appreciate its richness.

"And, above all, our heroes and heroines, who were the ideals upon which we formed our lives, were the great and good men and women of history and tradition; not the moving-picture and television favorites who set the standards for the children of today.

The Board of Education, which has been on the apot ever since its refusal to rent the Queen Mary adultior time to the Summer theatre, has found an enthusiastic champion. He'is J. Hubert Eastwood, the contractor who build Queen Mary addition.

In a letter to the Board Mr. Eastwood said he felt it had been "harrassed" in doing its job, and that it had been "subject to attack by pressure groups."

Mr. Eastwood said he has no interest in the Summer Theatre and therefore feels without bias. His letter says in part:

"It might appear from Letters to the Editor' has been critical.

This has nothing to do with the growing list of actors who are travelling to Washington to affirm, deny or remain silent about whether they have been Communists. That is merely a sidelight on the bigger problem what to do about sagging theatre business?

The real story is what is happening to the neighborhood theatres, the heart of the industry. Scattered reports indicate that they have been hard hit, especially in areas which television has invaded.

In a tragedy whose type RCMP said they could not recall being equalled in Manitoba, the five apparently were stalked and shot separately, the mother last to be killed as she crouched in the bedroom of the farm home.

Strike in Protest

LONDON, April 16 (Reuters)

Indications today were that the present stoppage — seventh since the seven men were first held by the police—would be no one-day token affair as in the past.

Reports from the dock area said the unofficial port workers' committee plans to extend the present stoppage—already holding up 100 ships—for several days.

Telegrams had been sent by unofficial groups during the weekend to other British ports calling for sympathetic strike action.

Nearly 2,000 Birkenhead dock workers stopped today in support of the protest. But at Liverpool and Glasgow, workers decided against strike action.

Webb told the House of Commons he is unable to tell how long the larger ration could be granted "until we know the result of current negotiations." This presumably was a reference to talks now going on in Buenos Aires for a new long-term contract to obtain meat from Argentina.

The current meat ration is 10 pence (about 12½ cents) per person per week. Webb said he is route certain" this can be increased to one shilling eight pence "by about August on-wards."

General Troubles

The case of General Douglas Mac-Arthur was not the first in modern times in which the issue of civil supremacy was fought out; there are analogies in both United States' and British history. As far as we know there is no parallel in Canadian history, for the differences between Sigarthur Currie and the Government of his days in the field, while a matter of record, were little publicized at the time and were purely military, as far as he was concerned.

Great Britain and France have also had troubles of this nature. There was no division of public opinion about General Buller: he was a public idol and, moreover, a favourite of his sovereign. WHEN, as a small boy, I was initiated into the mysteries of the piano, I was forbidden by my teacher to use the pedals, shall come to them later on", she said. Her prohibition was unnecessary; my legs were prohibition was unnecessary; my legs were scarcely long enough to reach the pedals unless I adopted a standing position. The years slipped by, and I soon used the pedals with more zeal than discretion. Eventually I acquired a reasonable pedal technique by hook and by crook. The teaching of pedal technique is, I fear, still on a rather happy-golucky basis, and it occurred to me that a few words on it might help to clear the air in more than one sense. nore than one sense.

THERE are usually three, sometimes two pedals on the modern piano. Pedals were sometimes found on the harpsichord, the precursor of the piano, but they fulfilled difto name particular ones. Every driver has complaints about half a dozen over which his car must pass each day—paved streets like Charlotte whose whole length is in disgraceful condition considering it is our second main thoroughfare; unpaved streets like Bollvar scarred by potholes which jar the spine and break MacArthur incident. The analogy is certain speed it sets in motion a hammer that strikes the string or strings. At the same instant a feit "damper", which has been in contact with the string(s) is removed, allowing the string(s) to vibrate freely. When the key is allowed to return to its original position the damper comes into contact with the string(s) again, stopping the vibrations. The effect of the right-hand pedal is to remove all the dampers from the strings.

Often the dry tones of the piano used without the pedal are most effective in creating the illusion of the earlier instruments. Some purists would forbid the use of the pedal entirely on the grounds that it is an anachronism, but then so is the holding the full resources of the modern piano in playing the works of the earlier masters so long as they are employed with discretion and artistic insight. The pedal discretion and artistic insight. The pedal should be used sparingly also in the works of Haydn and Mozart in order not to impair the clarity of their texture. Although the plano was "coming in" during their time they continued for the most part to write in an idlom that would sound equally well on both plano and harmaichood. and harpsichord.

BEETHOVEN showed more interest in the novel tonal effects that could be produced on the piano alone. The romantic movement eagerly seized on the new sonorities that were obtainable with the pedal. They opened out new vistas and imparted a sense of mystery, of 'evocation" to keyboard music that had hitherto been lacking. With Chopin we feel that piano music has acquired a new and startlingly beautiful dimension. To his contemopraries it must have sounded more startling and mysterious than it does to ourselves. Chopin without the pedal is incon-ceivable—if you do not believe this, try it! Other composers since Chopin have added a few new pedal effects, but his is the major Moreover it should be done a fraction of a second before the change of chord in order to allow for the time lag in damping. This time lag is greater in the lower register. If the pedal is raised very quickly but not to its full extent and then rapidly lowered this is known as "half-pedalling". This can, if done expertly, result in the higher register being damped, while the bass continues to vibrate, forming a bass for the next chord. This is a little uncertain in effect, but if one has a grand piano with three pedals it is unne cessary, so long as the bass is held down while the middle pedal is lowered. The bass only will then be sustained. LIKE the middle pedal the left-hand or soft pedal has a different action on grand and upright pianos. In the grand piano the whole "action" (hammers, jacks, keyboard, whole "action" (hammers, jacks, keyboard, this whole "action" (hammers, jacks, keyboard, etc.) is shifted sideways. The result of this is that instead of each hammer in the middle and upper registers striking three strings simultaneously it strikes only two. In the earlier days they were adjusted to strike one, hence the discation "two condes" (one string) hence the direction "una corda" (one string) which has survived to the present day. Be-sides giving a softer tone it alters the qual-ity of the tone, the third string vibrating in sympathy. This is a most useful and suggestive resource. The same cannot be said of the soft pedal of the upright piano. Here the lowering of the soft pedal brings the bar on which the hammers rest nearer to the strings. There is a less distance for acceleration, and This may have influenced President catching husbands. Please may we ask so an equivalent touch yields a softer tone. the soft pedal on the grand plano. minutes and 55 seconds of sudden-death overtime gave his Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 victory and tied their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final with the Leafs 1-1.

Although a typical Rocket-like swoosh settled the issue, the Leafs had to contend as well with spectacular goal-tending by Rookie Gerry McNeil and aggressive play of rookie forwards who backed the Toronto team right into its own goal in the first half of the game.

Leafs had to rely mainly on their never-say-dic captain, Ted (Tegder) Kennedy, who sparked a comeback drive which produced two goals and got his team on even terms with the Cariadiens at the end of the 60 minutes of regulation time.

Canadiens got some of their most effective play from an all.

Canadiens got some of their most effective play from an all-robtie line of Paul Masnick, Paul Meger and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion. Masnick got the game's first goal with Meger's help. In previous playoff gemes two of the youngsters teamed up with veteran Billy Reay at centre, Bill Saturday night Reay was utility centre and scored the Canadians' second goal, picking an open corner after getting a pass from Richard.

Although Leafs had command of the play after Reav's goal of the series, club officials said.

Malcolm Robb Urges Draft As 'Fairest Way'

MARMORA, April 16 (ENS)-"The high cost of survival" was the title of an address delivered Chamber of Commerce by Malcolm Robb of Belleville at the nthly dinner meeting held Thursday evening. The speaker declared that there were two forces capable of destroying this country—separately or jointly—Russian Communism from Moscow and inflation bred at home in Canada.

It was well known that Russia is intent on destruction of the democracies and the question is "how can we meet this?" Circumrhow can we meet this? Circumstances are against us, he said, with regard to man power. The manpower resources of Russia and China, allies in the Second World War, were never fully tapped. Russia wants the industrial potential of Western Europe.

Russia wants the industrial potential of Western Europe.

One popular illusion was that the Russian threat has came on very suddenly. The truth is that Russia has pursued her present policy since the last war. A further illusion is that Canada is somewhat of an arsenal. "We are in no sense an arsenal," said the speaker. "You don't win a war with newspaper headlines but with troops in battle, adequately trained and equipped. The government has tried to obscure the fact that we haven't got a real defensive army at all. We can't afford to obscure the truth now. Conscription is the only fair and logical way to get man power as is needed."

Mr. Robb quoted Gen. Eisenhower as lamenting the number of graves overseas of soldiers who died because of under training. The last illusion scored by the speaker was that politicians put principle before office. There are many, he said, who put party first and country second.

The speaker closed with words of Winston Churchill: "Man has and country second.

The speaker closed with words of Winston Churchill: "Man has only to conquer his last and worst enemy—himself." Mr. Robb was introduced by R. G. Walsh and thanked by H. A. McNally.

Canon J. M. Brownlie also associated himself with the vote of thanks. C. R. Whittemore, chairman, welcomed members and visitors. A brief business period succeeded the address. A compile of the succeeded the succe mittee was appointed to go into the matter of marking the names of Marmora streets. President Alex Fraser intimated that Vern Caverly of Oshawa and Glen Allan Park, Crowe Lake, had accepted the chairmanship of the regatta committee and informed him that prospects were good for this event which is being staged on August 4.

Mery: I don't know—with rents so high and places so few, it would be simply awful to lose this place!

John: Well now, I'll tell you ... don't worry another minute. I've just made a deal that will make sure that this house is yours, clear and fully paid for, should anything happen to me. Mary: Where?... What?... I mean what kind of a deal?

John: You remember the Dominion Life man? He told me about the Dominion Life Mortgage Redemption Plan. The low cost surprised me—only about 1% added to the present Mortgage interest. So, Mary, I've taken out a Policy. It will make sure that should anything happen to me, you'll have this home to live in, free and paid for, instead of a Mortgage to pay.

ing and safety.

The report is from the American Public Health Association's committee on the hygiene of housing, and is entitled "Construction and Equipment of the Home." Dr. C.-E. A. Winslow, professor emeritus of public health at Yale School of Medicine, is chairman. Various authorities wrote the book.

Mensee To Health

Lack of living space is a health menace, and overcrowding brings frustration, conflict and unncessary fatigue, it declares. Today extra space in a house is becoming a thing just for the rich.
"The mortgage pattern set up by United States Congress virtually dictates the construction of underaized two-bedroom dwellings," the report says, and because of this "the family life and emotional health of a large proportion of our population is seriously menaced."

Here are some of the things the aced."

Here are some of the things the report covers:

Noise control and accoustic comfort. It indicts noise as harmful to hearing, for kicking up blood pressure, interfering with digestion, causing fatigue, nervous reactions, inhibitions and annoyance. Much knowledge already exists on how to reduce noise, to reduce echoing, to cut down transmission of sound through walls, to quiet traffic.

Kitchen sinks that don't break

STERRIS GRIZZLY SERVICE BEAR

A sex war over the furnace thermostat seems inevitable. Women, by physical makeup, are more resistant than men to the cooling effect of a cold room, but women wear fewer clothes. Ideally, says the report, the heating plant and construction should give an even temperature. If the mean temperature of a room is 70 degrees, it shouldn't be below 68 degrees at the floor, and not above 72 at the head height. But many homes have a 10 to 15 or even 30 degree difference.

Face the house correctly to the sun and wind. Windows should be of a type that can be cleaned from the inside. Homes need better wiring, and more convenient electrical outlets. New devices can keep a beby's curious fingers from poking into the outlets.

Dangerous Room

The kitchen is the most dangerous room in the house for nonfatal accidents. The report tells how planning and spacing can make it safer.

Many of the suggested standards could be had by intelligent design rather than use of more costly materials or gadgets, the report says.

materials or gadgets, the report says.

It declares present home construction costs are burdened with "wholly unnecessary costs" and "present building codes, current trade practices, distribution methods and labor requirements bear a large share of the responsibility for this situation."

Oh yes, she likes dolls, but mention of Chopin brings on the smiles. Then she nods her blonde head vigorously and heads for the piano, stacked high with music—to show the latest of his pieces she is learning.

Pierrette didn't have a great deal to say during a recent interview which was conducted chiefly in English. That was because French is her key language at the moment. However, her mother says she is rapidly learning to read and speak English.

Mrs. le Page, who speaks fluently in both languages, says Pierrette makes the trip back to Quebec City every two weeks or so "for her music lessons."

marry has to take a husband "as is" and risk the gamble.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 16, the oldest of four motherless children. The youngest is 12. Our father is thinking of getting married, but we are opposed to it because we fear that it will break up the harmony of he home. We don't want to be selfish, but it just doesn't seem as though he should get married again. Will you please give us your viewpoint on this subject?

Time speeds on, seven years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light. We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there's none to fill,
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
—Sadly missed by Jean, Ken and his wife.

Watched Prices

It wasn't that they didn't want industrial plants to expand — but they wanted industry to go a bit slower until the supply of goods was more plentiful, so that prices would not be bid up.

At that time they decided, through influence on interest rates to discourage capital expansion slightly. But they were careful not to discourage it too much—they were afraid they might reverse the trend too strongly.

For the post-war spending was a prenomenon of sorts. There had been fair reason to think industry would adopt a policy of "wait and see" and proceed carefully. In fact, a great many people almost took it for granted that there would be a sharp post-war recession.

Supports Gen. MacArthur

TOKYO, April 18 — (AP) — An informant who demanded anonymity today reported that the top commonwealth military officer in Japan voiced support for Gen. MacArthur's program for fear it would spread the war.

A man who attended a confidential conference reported today that Lt.—Gen. Sir H. C. H. Robertson, administrative commander of Commonwealth forces in Koree, last week told a confidential conference of Commonwealth reporters that MacArthur's proposal offered the best hope of forcing the Chinese out of the war and preventing a costly stalemate.

He quoted Robertson as saying that the only alternative would be to send a tremendous land ermy—larger than anyone has contemplated—into Korea.

Athabaskan Sets

Record For Fuelling

LONDON, April 18— (Reuters)
Two Allied ships off Korea have performed a feat the Admiralty was proud to tell about Tuesday night.

The Canadian destroyer Athabaskan and the Royal Fleet auxiliary Wave Knight have set a record for fuelling at sea.

In just 1 minute 45 seconds, a line was fired from the Wave Knight to the Athabaskan and the fuel oil transferred.

The record was made off the enemy-held Korean west coast, and the exact time counted by the British carrier Theseus which was fuelling from the other side of Wave Knight.

The Communists let loose with fragmentation effect. Still, casualties were light.

A company under major Bob Swinton of Vancouver tangled with the enemy at dusk after a long afternoon climb up a 600-tot rock face through a spring mist thickened with smoke from Canadian hands by nightfall.

Meanwhile in the battalion's perimeter a "civilian" in blue coat and white trousers was the earlier in the day to help the Middlesex Regiment take a position which had been holding up the front for almost two days.

Companies led by Swinton and Major Jack George of Edmonton advanced unopposed until right among the enemy positions.

There the fog and smoke cleared to reveal Levy's men in a relatively lightly held area, although wood. CP Proposes News Service Given In French

TORONTO, April 18 (CP).—
Herve Major, completing his first year as president of The Canadian Press, today told the co-operative's annual meeting he proposes to ask French-language member newspapers whether they wish CP service delivered to them in their own language.

CP news service covers the world—Canada, through the co-operative effort of its daily newspaper members; other countries through exchange agreements with allied agencies. In 1944, Mr. Major said, the CP board of directors had approved a proposal to serve French-language members in French At that time the members had decided for the time being, to continue accepting service in English and do their own translating. Tuesday the board had given formal approval to the principle of serving present French-language members at regular cost.

Mr. Major, who is news editor of Montreal La Presse, said there were many obstacles in the way. "But the idea of CP becoming the first billingual news service in the world is so important and significant in this billingual country that it merits every possible effort to achieve."

His reference to a possible service in French was made in an annual review of the affairs of CP, the national news-gathering co-operative of 90 Canadian dallies. The financial position was reviewed, new members welcomed and directors elected.

At the outset of the meeting D. G. Rogers of The Regina Leader-Post paid tribute to Mr. Major as typifying "the many fine qualities which characterize those who conduct the French-language press in Canada—astuteness, assiduousness, graciousness and friendliness." These were merged happily with yet another quality which fitted him admirably for his post. That quality was fairness—"fairness in all that he considers, decides and does."

UK Farmers Race Against Time To Sow Crops

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, April 18 (CP). —
A warm, forgotten sun shone on Britain this week, and farmers raced against time to try to make sodden fields.

But even if the present good weather holds for what is known as agriculture', "crisis fortnight" experts expect that the wet winter—with 80 wet days out of 80 in some sections—will cost Britian about 500,000 acres of wheat.

If the missing wheat has to be obtained from North America, if will mean a payment of up to £15,000,000 ($43,250,000).

Sir James Scott Watson, adviser to the agriculture ministry, said during the weekend he expects wheat may be down at least 500,000 acres from the target of 2,500,000 acres.

Lowest On Record

So far it appears that apring wheat sowing will be the dowest on record.

"It now seems almost inevitable," one British agricultural correspondent wrote, "that we cannot escape some loss of food and money through this year's unprecedented weather."

L. F. Easterbrook, writing in The News-Chronicle said the lesson for Britain is that she has become dependent on her home harvest in a way unknown for nearly a century.

Now, he said "we cannot just buy food from somewhere else" if unable to produce it at home.

The correspondent said there are still nundreds of thousands of acres which could be used for food production. The only reason they are lying idle is "because we have lost the habit of using them in the days of unlimited imports." them in the days of unlin

He softened him up first with several hard slams and some slugging after Morgan started punching, and Eric also used a terrific bearthug to advantage. Ben was faster and trickier, but he couldn't match straight power when Eric got going. The referee didn't have too much to do this, time, apart from warning Morgan at the county over the ropes and roughening the minutes when he flipped Eric back into the ring in over the ropes and roughening in my as he lay stunned. He ad previously kicked the chunky lumberjack out of the ring to the arena floor. Ben was quite agressive at the start and fast for a big man, but also extra rough. He used a tough choke hold, despite frequent warnings and counts by Referee Cliff Fox, and he rasped Eric's eyes with his whiskers for a new type of torture. Eric battled back at times to the fans' cheers, but this round was mostly Ben's as he stepped around like a lightweight and pulled all the shady mat tricks he knew against his slower oponent, who preferred to play it cleanly.

Pat Flanagan, weighing 231, and Sonny Kurgis, scaling 235, fought it out to a draw in their match. Orpen's River the soil and the natural drainage system of the track.

Explaining the all-weather durability of Dufferin track, President Fred Orpen attributes the fine racing con-ditions to the fact that his park is built over old Gar-rison Creek.

To a week or so the thundering hoof beats of the Sport of Kings will awaken Ontario to another racing season. On Wednesday May 2nd, Fred Orpen's Dufferin Park in Toronto will open for the early spring meet running through to May the 17th. The 1951 meet marks the 44th year of the Orpen dynasty in Ontario racing and, as usual, Dufferin track will both open and close the Ontario season. The fact that Dufferin Park is ideal for horse racing in almost any weather is due to the peculiarity of the soil and the natural drainage system of the track.

Garrison Creek still meanders leisurely beneath the race track, although its ancient grandeur is sullied slightly by the lowly title of 'sewer' these days. The Creek finds its source in the upper reaches of the Credit Valley and empties into Lake Ontario at the foot of Strachan Avenue, Toronto, Sewer or river, the Garrison nevertheless contributes a natural drainage and irrigation system for Dufferin Park, providing ideal rac-ing conditions in wet or dry weather.

ing conditions in wet or dry weather.

According to Fred Orpen, the land on which Dufferin Park now stands originally formed part of a Crown grant belonging to the old Denison family of United Empire Loyalist stock. The Denisons were sporting landowners. They created a private hunt club on the site of the present race track and in the long history of the grounds Dufferin Park has yet to be used in any capacity other than that of horse racing. The original track had been a thid-of-a-mile but shortly before the turn of the century Dufferin because the half-mile track we know today.

30-Year Partnership

In 1907 the late A. M. (Abe) Orpen and Thomas Hare formed a partnership and took over Dufferin Park. Orpen and Hare formed their partnership on a thirty-year basis and the pact was truly a gentlemen's agreement for no contract was ever signed between them.

Ironically, the 30-year agreement between the partners had been timed correctly for Abe Orpen died in September 1937, just three months short of the contract period, while Thomas Hare passed on only ten days past the allotted span.

Famous Horse

Looking over the vast stretch of the grandstand and the adjacent buildings of the famous Canadian race track (from the vantage point of Fred Orpen'a modern offices), you notice the dozens of closed green doors leading everywhere.

"The doors confuse nearly every-one," laughs Orpen. "The truth is most of them lead exactly nowhere. They've outlived their usefulness."

We inquired about some of the great horses which have raced at Dufferin over the years and Fred Orpen seemed to have a certain fondness for the famous Bunty Lawless.W. E. MacDonald's Tulachmore also recalled a memorable moment for Mr. Orpen.

"Late in the fall of 1944 the eighth and last race was a Stakes affair which we ran off in semi-darkness before a crowd which followed the event more by sound than vision. As the horses pounded round the track, we heard cries of "Get the lantern out" and "Maybe they've all gone home." But through the gathwing darkness we saw Tulachmore thundering, round the last turn, far in the lead and hitting the home-stretch as though racing in broad daylight. It was a great "will from a great horse,"

Having seen them all, Fred Orpen hould know.

For instance, Al Menzies twice pulled a foxy bit of play last year for the Petes. With a runner aboard and Al up, the local catcher apparently stepped out of the batting box just as the pitcher was taking his stretch on the mound. Each time, the hurler stopped his motion. Once the umpire rightly ruled that it was a balk, since Al had stepped to the edge of the batting box trailing his bat, but didn't quite step out. So the pitcher should have continued his motion and delivery. Another time, the ump was fooled, too, and stopped play, so no balk was allowed. Smart players are why the baseball rule book gets fatter every year.

Mr. Muscles Takes Bout

Whatever they eat in Alaska (whale blubber, we've heard) it must agree with Yukon Eric. The big matman looks healthy and has muscles sticking out all over him, like bumps in a city street comes April. He hadn't too much trouble flipping 306-pound Ben Morganwhiskers and all-around to win the main bout at the Brock Arena last gloaming as the customers cheered loudly. Pat Flanagan and Sonny Kurgis went to a draw in their tussle, both having a goodly fan following. Iron Talun took Abe Zyonkin in nigh onto jig time in the first scrap of the card, though Abe made it a battle for a time. The big Polack was feeling quite frisky and insisted upon giving us a picture of himself as Goliath in a movie made a few months ago in Hollywood. How those grapplers get around!

* * * * * * * From Niagara Falls comes word that the St. Kitts junto won the Dominion lacro —will play as a Falls' team this year. With the senior A's having first right on the players. The junior "A" setup would be, according to the account, Niagara Falls, Brampton, Fergus, Mimico, Peterborough, Owen Sound, Toronto and Weston. With plans being made to run a triple schedule with all but Owen Sound and the junior Petes—because of the distances involved — home-and-home series being arranged in their cases during the schedule. This would give Lou Vitarelli's crew seven home games and seven away, before playoffs commence. # #

Is this going to be another bridesmaid year for Boston's perennial left-at-the-altar Red Sox?

Vic Raschi's 5-0 handcuffing of the Red Sox stuggers for New York Yankees Tuesday smacks too much of "the same old Red Sox" of the last four years.

Watching Boston being throtited with six singles made it almost impossible to visualize them as the same pulverizing team that was picked by most of the experts this year to win the American League pennant.

Philadelphia's defending champion Phils downed Brooklyn Dodgers 5-2 at Ebbets Field. Robin Roberts, whose final-day triumph over the Brooks last year gave the Phils their first flag in 35 years, again thwarted the Dodgers.

Canadiens once more take over the underdog position, and must win Thursday's game here to keep up with the hustling Leafs.

It was the third overtime game by the closely-matched teams. Maurice (Rocket) Richard, ace goal getter of Canadiens, sent his team in front in the first period and Sid Smith tied it up for the Leafs in the second.

Canadiens thrilled the 14,433 home-town fans early in the overtime when Richard and Ken Mosdell came within a whisker of scoring.

TED TEARS IT — Capable Theodore (Ted) Kennedy really tore it apart for Leafs in over-time last night down Montreal way, his score at 4.21 of the extra inning giving Toronto a 2-1 win and a 2-1 lead over Canadiens in Stanley Cup finals. of scoring.

Wrapped Up Game

Then at 4:47 of the extra session the Leafs struck swiftly and a wrapped up the game. Smith intercepted a pass from Montreal's Calum MacKay inside the Canadien blue line and snapped a short pass to Kennedy. The Toronto captain, one of the Leafs outstanding players in the series, took a couple of strides and let drive from just outside the face-off circle on goalie Gerry Mc-Neil's left. The puck, travelling no more than two feet above the ice, caught the net with a swish.

The game was one of wide-open play, close checking and stellar netminding. Both teams lost chances to settle the outcome without necessity of overtime.

say there is no real cause for worry.

Engineer Charles Hurst told The Examiner today that the volume of water going through the Trent system is "not unusual." Lakes are all at their high spring level and are no higher than they have been in recent years.

In Sturgeon and Pigeon Lakes, some cottagers have reported their cottages surrounded by shallow flood water, and some whatves have been weakened by high water. Cottages claim the water is about two feet above summer level.

Flooding Right.

Mr. Hurst commented that the Trent system has flooding rights on all the system's lakes and that most cottagers build their summer homes above that level.

"If they build on low land, they must take the risk. However, wat-

You do not know enough about women to make a wise selection. You are not ready to settle down and you are not ready able to support a wife. It would save a lot of trouble in the world if men would wait to market if men would wait to marry un-til they had at least a fifty-fifty chance of making a success of it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are both college graduates with advanced degrees but when our first child was a year old we discovered that she was what is called a mongoloid (mentally stationary after a cer-tain age). This is caused by some prenatal condition which doctors know little about but our doctor said it probably would not occur again. Our next two children were normal. The second child is in school. She learns quickly and does the third who will start

People are always shocked about the first child and while I do not consider it a shame, some do and say it reflects on the other children. The second child's school children. The second child's school teacher told me some children at school taunt my child and she feels very badly. Some have advised us to put the first child in an institution but I just can't bear to think of strange people caring for her and perhaps mistreating

My question is, where does my duty lie? To care for the helpless, harmless little child who will grow physically but remain a child in all other respects, or shall I send her to an institution and

ANSWER: You have a heartbreaking problem to which many people will give you different answers. But I think you have the original causes for children becoming society misfits, doing things serious enough to affect the lives of those around them.
